49 BISON

CAMPUS CANDIDS

Dedication

This BISON is dedicated to YOU, a member of the Howard University graduating class of 1949. We trust that it will be instrumental in preserving the memories of our undergraduate days at HOWARD, and serve as a source of inspiration in the years to come. It is with this in mind that you, a '49-er, are presented this BISON.

"The race of mankind would perish did they cease to aid each other. . . . We cannot exist without mutual help. All, therefore, that need aid have a right to ask for it from their fellow men, and no one who has the power of granting can refuse it without guilt."

Veterans in Engineering and Architecture

OF a total enrollment of 6,699 students at Howard University during the school year 1948-49, more than 2,200 were veterans of World War II. During the past year a total of 526 students, including 377 veterans, enrolled for degrees in Engineering and Architecture.

Veterans represented 72 per cent of the Engineering and Architecture graduating class of 28 students, and received their degrees in June by departments as follows: Architecture, 3; Civil Engineering, 4; Electrical Engineering, 11, and Mechanical Engineering, 2. One veteran graduated Magna Cum Laude and two graduated Cum Laude.

CAMPUS CANDIDS

Mrs. Mordecai W. Johnson, wife of the President, is shown having an informal discussion with the Honorable Ras H. S. Imru, Ethiopian Minister to the United States. The official and his family have been guests of the University on several occasions.

President's Reception

Each year President and Mrs. Mordecai W. Johnson hold a reception during Commencement Week for Howard University graduates and their parents and friends. The President, administrative officials, deans, faculty members, and their wives reflect a spirit of warm friendship on all guests, and the affair is usually an event long to be remembered. President and Mrs. Johnson have been hosts to many hundreds of visitors, graduates, and parents over a period of twenty-three years.

These six medical school students (center), shown with Dr. Ruth E. Moore (left) and Dr. R. L. McKinney (right), have been awarded Jesse Smith-Noyes Foundation Scholarships (see story below).

Medical School Students Awarded Six Scholarships

SIX HOWARD UNIVERSITY Medical School students were awarded Jesse Smith-Noyes Foundation Scholarship Awards recently ranging in amounts from $500 to $1,000, to help defray the cost of receiving a medical education.

The recipients are as follows: Ambrose Clement, student from Cincinnati, Ohio, $800; Lionel Debordes, student from New Orleans, La., $1,000; Mavis Holness, student from Jamaica, British West Indies, $500; Neville Achong, student from Trinidad, British West Indies, $500; Lloyd Jorsling, student from Trinidad, B.W.I., $550, and Pearl Romeo, student from Bronx, N. Y., $600.

In the first year of operation of this new philanthropy, the scholarship division of the Jesse Smith-Noyes Foundation became aware of the recently widely publicized deficits in health facilities available to the Negro, and aided a total of about fifteen students with substantial grants. These students are attending Yale, Rochester, Buffalo, Michigan, Howard, and Meharry, the largest group at any one institution being the six students at Howard University.

Dean J. L. Johnson congratulates Carolyn Hammond on being chosen a delegate to the International Clinical Congress held last summer in England. Medical school faculty and students raised $500 for expenses.

Twelve members of the Howard University Dance Group participated in this dance entitled "Spirit of the Tom-Toms" at a recent May Festival.

These tap dancers, depicting "joy," played a most important role in the interpretation of the "Negro Suite."

Intelligent Musicianship Fine Performance

The School of Music of Howard University has played a distinguished role in the development of music in American life since its first tentative beginnings in 1885. Foundations were laid by Miss Lulu V. Childers with her appointment as the first director of the School in 1906. Under her leadership the years were witness to the expansion of facilities, the increase of personnel, the acquisition of equipment and the enrichment of the scope and influence of its work.

Today, music at Howard University stands at an important crossroad in its history. It has the distinction of being first among Negro schools to offer the Mus.B. degree and now it accepts the challenge of being the only School of Music in Negro Universities.

Campus Buildings

SOUTH CAMPUS: This scene shows the rear view of Founders Library, Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel, Thirkield Hall and the Chemistry Building. Founders Library was erected in 1938, and is located on the site of the historic Main Building. It provides for the central activities of the University Library. Andrew Rankin Memorial Chapel was built about 1894 as a memorial to Andrew E. Rankin, brother of the late President J. E. Rankin. Thirkield Science Hall was built in 1909. The Chemistry Building, completed in 1936, is a spacious five-story building which contains very modern equipment and laboratories for research and teaching.

The Engineering and Architecture Building (above), a three-story reinforced concrete and brick structure, was erected in 1910. Congress has appropriated funds for a new Engineering and Architecture building which will be constructed on the Howard University campus in the near future.

George W. Cook Hall, a dormitory for men completed in 1940, is located in the northwest section of the campus on a plot equal in size to a half city block. It accommodates 190 students.

SOCIAL WORK

In every community there are children who cannot be properly cared for in their own homes and for whom some other provisions must be made in order to give them wholesome recreation and help in developing leadership. George L. Smith, a student in the School of Social Work, is shown working with such a group at a community center in Washington, D. C.

DENTISTRY

"If I can stop one heart from breaking
I shall not live in vain,
If I can ease one life the aching
Or cool one pain, . . .
I shall not live in vain."

DEAN RUSSELL A. DIXON

To the Senior Class in Dentistry, 1949

THERE will be mutual rejoicing in that memorable hour when you will come to realize the fruition of your professional aspiration. At this hour, the University will "confer upon you the degree of Doctor of Dental Surgery, with all of the rights, privileges, and duties pertaining thereto." With these time-honored words, there comes to you that historic charge which learned men in their seasoned wisdom have regarded as all-inclusive of what rewards you reasonably may expect from the acquisition of an education and, conversely, what society reasonably may expect of you because of your special educational advantages.

What are the rights of you who have achieved professional status? What are your privileges? What are your duties? Your rights are those which come to you who, in the light of your professional and scientific knowledge and ethical behavior, deserve the respect, confidence, and good-will of your fellow men. Your privileges are your unique opportunities for service which dispel the suffering and insure the well-being of those who confidently lean upon you for the preservation and restoration of health. Your duties, attendant with rights and privileges, are those moral compulsions that require you to give of yourself fully, conscientiously, tirelessly, and courageously—all that you have acquired whenever and wherever your services are needed for the physical and spiritual blessings of all mankind.

With a wholesome regard for the composite of these three abstractions—rights, privileges, and duties—the concrete structure of professional maturity will be manifest in you. Therefore, with our blessings and confidence which you richly deserve, and with this expression of trust, we rejoice at your outgoing while the world will rejoice at your incoming.

Chapter of National Honor Society in Dentistry Established at H. U.

ASIDE from those mandatory requisites of a first-class school—qualified teachers, a strong curriculum, a well-equipped physical plant, and competent students—no greater recognition can be given to a college than that of being invited and welcomed into membership and association with the national honor society, representative of the highest academic and professional achievement of the particular field involved.

This welcomed recognition came to the College of Dentistry prior to the opening of the spring trimester, 1948, when it was invited to refile a petition for the establishment of a chapter of Omicron Kappa Upsilon, National Honor Society in Dentistry. Unlike the traditional fraternities of campus life, the one objective of Omicron Kappa Upsilon is the recognition and promotion of highest scholarship and character. It is deemed no ordinary achievement or honor, therefore, for the College of Dentistry to have been one of the first schools in the University to be granted a charter and to have installed a component chapter of a truly national honor society.

After many informal discussions by the Faculty of Dentistry, seven of its members of professorial rank submitted a petition, under date of April 11, 1946, to the Supreme Chapter of Omicron Kappa Upsilon for the establishment of a component chapter at Howard University College of Dentistry. This petition was not rejected but it lay tabled during the remainder of the period that the College of Dentistry was "approved provisionally" by the Council on Dental Education.

When, at a meeting of the Council on Dental Education, held in Chicago on February 5, 6, 1948, the College of Dentistry was voted "approved" on a fully accredited basis, it paved the way for the Dental College to renew its petition for a chapter. However, before this request was made, the Supreme Chapter of Omicron Kappa Upsilon, under date of February 28, 1948, invited the College to file another petition for a component chapter. Such a petition was filed again on March 2, 1948, by the original seven signatories, and on April 1, 1948, the Secretary-Treasurer of the Supreme Chapter wrote: "The Executive Committee of the Supreme Chapter of the Society has approved the petition and it has been submitted to the Component Chapter for their consideration."

On May 15, 1948, the Secretary announced that a charter had been granted and, with his congratulations, advised that the chapter members proceed at once to effect an organization. A meeting was held on May 18, at which time, in accordance with the Constitution and By-Laws of the Supreme Chapter, officers for the newly created Pi Pi Chapter were elected as follows: Percy A. Fitzgerald, President; John A. Turner, Vice-President, and Raymond L. Hayes, Secretary-Treasurer. The other charter members were: Russell A. Dixon, C. Carnot Evans, Emmett J. Scott, and Adolphus Walton.

Installation of the chapter was held on June 2, 1948, on which occasion Dr. Erling Thoen, Secretary-Treasurer of the Supreme Chapter, Omicron Kappa Upsilon, located at the University of Iowa, presented President Mordecai W. Johnson with the charter for Pi Pi Chapter, and also presented each member with his key.

The following members of the June, 1948, graduating class were the first Howard University students to be elected to the Society: Harold L. Applewhite, Grace E. Byrd, Donald C. Fitzroy, and Herman F. Stamps.

Other alumni members elected at this time were Benjamin Day Boyd, Roland O. Groomes, Herman E. Gaskins, Joseph L. Henry, John A. Jackson, Richard K. Otagaki, and Robert H. Thompson, Sr. The honorary member chosen was Robert M. Hendrick, Sr.

A Message to the Women of the Graduating Classes

To break the ice of an undertaking is difficult. If the obstacles do not yield at some given point, we imagine that we have made no headway. In any large or prolonged undertaking we are likely to take too limited a view of the progress we are making; however, the women in dentistry and dental hygiene have proved to a large degree their value to the profession and their right to consider themselves a part of its progress. We cannot change the past, but our spirit at this moment will in some measure shape our future. At this commencement one goal has been reached . . . with sustained hope and courage each future encounter shall be equally successful.

Class History

"Dear Student,

IT GIVES me pleasure to inform you that your application for admission to the Howard University College of Dentistry has been accepted. . . ."

So read 26 stalwart, ambitious young men in the fall of 1945 and subsequently entered the hallowed halls of the old dental school (we shall call it the old dental school since we, as the class before us, were promised that we'd graduate from the new building). We were an odd crew, gathered from all parts of the eastern half of the United States, the Virgin Islands, Trinidad, and British Guiana; married, near married, single, gay, somber, scared, determined; ex-G.I.'s, 4F's, and the too-young-for-drafting.

We, 26 embryonic young (most of us, that is) dentists, fresh from college and other less mentally strenuous pursuits, were projected post-haste into an assembly line, supersonic, post-war dental education.

Our first shock hit the class at 8:00 A.M. on our first day of school when Dr. "Talkathon" Wilkerson strode into Bio-chem lecture a-talkin' away . . . having started the lecture half-way down the aisle. The class was already two paragraphs behind and, except for "Ike" Henderson with his shorthand, no member of the class ever caught up.

Dr. Mose Young somewhat simplified our freshman year by giving us "the great secret of learning—open the book and read!" The verbose Dr. Cobb blew our egos into bloom with his constant insistence that we were the cream of 13,000,000, only to have Dr. "Mother" Moore shatter the bubble of illusion with her quiet invitations to "come upstairs" with her (said the spider to the fly). Our successes with Dean Dixon's Introduction to Operative and our elation over learning Dental Nomenclature buoyed us up again, but Dr. Scott administered the usual pin-in-the-bubble by issuing another piece of wax after he'd seen the anomalies we presumed to call reproductions of normal anatomy.

We weathered the storm of lab practicals, bio-chem exams, formaldehyde tears "in the cool of the evening," Dr. "Monotone" McKinney's lecture on warm afternoons (where "norcelepsy" Henderson should have been decorated for dive bombing) and hours of "peepin' down that barrel." We managed to stay afloat until those last terrific two weeks when both barrels opened a barrage—spring exams: the famous cadaver waltz, bacteriology, neuro-anatomy, etc.

After a half summer's suspense we were all invited to return that fall as sophomores. Our second year in the battle of the books, bottles, and brains, and "dogies" beset with no end of difficulties, phobias, and long to be remembered sounds, "Is the dog still breathing?", "If you can't tool that foil on the manikin, unscrew the tooth." We waded through more practicals, picROTOXIN, spot quizzes, x-ray mounting, ethics, operative armamentaria, bad luck with castings, and the long hours of patience that too often ended in defeat and another "blowin' away" finally to get our "M.D.'s" at the end of the second quarter. We rejoiced, but the preclinical battle was still ahead of us.

Then, summer, and 23 weary, but happy veterans were turned loose on the unsuspecting public—the clinic at last! Calculus and stains, prophys and mouth exams for two weeks, then that first Class I—pulp fever, pathological exposures, red tape, patient psychology, rocking foils, and the sickening sound of an amalgam cracking as you removed the matrix.

Ascending to the upper classes brought relief from burning the midnight oil, but substituted sore feet and aching backs as the Class of '49 plunged into the struggle for points like a colony of beavers. Our junior year wasn't all sweat and tears for Banks and Fabio and Sparks took time out to say their "I do's." Johnson and Wray added a member to their families (thanks for the cigar, Charlie), and Stripling and Brown entered Greekdom via Alpha and Omega, respectively.

We started pedodontia after the first quarter and the clinic was overrun with gremlins squirting water, riding the chairs Tom Mix style, and playing havoc in general. Before the year was over Brown, Smith, and Stripling had received commissions with the U.S. Army and were sporting their uniforms to classes.

Through the heat of the summer of '48 we pyramided our points far above the junior requirement. We paused for a moment to gather some lounge points and count our blessings.

The embryonic doctors of dental surgery having graduated from crown and bridge à la dentiform to crown and bridge à la oral cavity, from the ivories (on dentiforms) to the ivories, from surgery lectures to blood, bone, and bi-zygomatic fractures, from prosthetic dentistry to prosthodontia, we were a proud and confident crew.

Aside from the "blood, sweat, and tears" associated with the dental school, we had our share of bad luck. In our junior year Sidney Burnette suffered illness, but was able to join us in the senior year that fall. "Chew" Berry had to drop out the second quarter of the junior year because of illness which would not permit him to catch up with us. We wish him good luck and good health for next year.

"Precision mingled with knowledge and intelligence . . ."

" . . . for today is the sure preparation for tomorrow."

"In the healing arts, as in anything else, a success is one who has acquired the habit of succeeding."

"Precision, knowledge, and perseverance."

Members of the Junior Class are shown in the General Clinic of the College of Dentistry. Congress has authorized $1,805,430 for a new building to house the College. Construction will begin in the very near future.

Dental School Accredited

AMERICAN DENTAL ASSOCIATION'S COUNCIL ON DENTAL EDUCATION FULLY APPROVES H. U. COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY

THE COLLEGE OF DENTISTRY of Howard University has been accredited with full approval by the Council on Dental Education of the American Dental Association, according to an announcement in a recent issue of the Journal of the American Dental Association.

Dr. Russell A. Dixon, Dean of the College of Dentistry, on being asked to confirm the report, stated that he had been officially notified of the accreditation by Dr. Harlan H. Horner, Secretary of the Council on Dental Education.

The official report of the Survey Committee to Dean Dixon stated, in part, that "Howard continues to enroll a high percentage of college graduates. She stood in the first four schools in this regard in the original survey (in June, 1943) and apparently has not lost her place."

Other dental schools fully accredited by the association at its recent meeting were:

The School of Dentistry of the College of Physicians and Surgeons at San Francisco, Calif.; the School of Dental Medicine of Harvard University at Boston, Mass.; the School of Dentistry of St. Louis University at St. Louis, Mo., and the School of Dentistry of Temple University at Philadelphia, Pa.

In an interview, Dean Dixon stated that within a few years the Dental School will be housed in a new building which is to be erected on available space adjacent to the existing Medical School building. For this building, Congress authorized, prior to July 1, 1947, an appropriation of $42,480 for advance planning and of the same date made an additional authorization of $1,805,430 for the construction of the building. Dr. Dixon indicated further that the building coordinator, Julian Cook, has practically completed his work in connection with the plans, and the actual process of construction will begin in the near future.

Dean Dixon stated further that "one of the most outstanding gifts that has come to any of the dental schools in America in recent years came from the late Dr. Louise C. Ball, a dentist of New York, who for twenty years was a member of the Board of Trustees of Howard University.

"Her everlasting interest in dental education was manifested in her gift of $334,697.21, specifically to the College of Dentistry of Howard University for postgraduate studies of its faculty and alumni."

Dr. John A. Turner, Head of the Department of Oral Surgery, center, holds consultation concerning an interesting case with several members of the Dental School staff.

Dr. Raymond L. Hayes, Head of the Department of Oral Medicine, discusses Root Canal Therapy with visiting dentists, faculty, and students at the mid-winter clinic.

This sum also provides for scholarships for women in dentistry and in dental hygiene, and for several prizes which had been offered by Dr. Ball for many years.

Two members of the faculty are already receiving graduate training under Louise C. Ball Fellowship grants. Dr. Harry M. McLinn, who has been appointed Assistant Professor of Orthodontics, is one of the recipients of a fellowship grant. He graduated from the Dental College in 1944, and is currently pursuing postgraduate studies at Columbia University.

The other recipient, Dr. Norman H. C. Griffiths, a graduate of the Class of 1947 who has been appointed Assistant Professor of Prosthodontia, is now taking postgraduate courses at Northwestern University.

"With this outstanding contribution, there should never be any remission in the progressive development of the faculty and of the alumni," Dr. Dixon added.

Dr. Harlan H. Horner, Secretary of the Council of Dental Education of the American Dental Association, speaks.

Dr. Russell A. Dixon, seated at desk, confers with Don M. Vernon, Business Agent of the College, and several members of the Dental School faculty. The group includes Drs. Turner, Hayes, Ridgely, Boyd, and Fitzgerald.

Dr. R. Gordon Agnew, dean of the West China Union University Dental School, is shown delivering a stirring address on "Professional Maturity" at the Dental School Honors Night Banquet held during Commencement Week.

These include the planning and sponsoring of lectures, field trips, movies, dances, an annual picnic, and a smoker for freshmen. In activities which are of interest to the entire campus body, the Engineering and Architecture Council works with the councils of the other schools.

Class History

THE 1949 Senior Class in the School of Engineering and Architecture is not unlike many other graduating classes of this year. Looking back to 1945, we find that there were only a few members of the present class who were then classified as freshmen. Some were attending other schools, but most were serving in the armed forces of the country. It can be seen, therefore, that this class is composed essentially of three groups: the veterans, the transfer students, and those who were freshmen in 1945.

The class, as it stands today, can be safely said to have started about three years ago. This was during the time when the majority of veterans were returning. Prior to the war, the enrollment in the Engineering School was small, but during this period it rapidly increased.

The 1949 class is the largest ever to be graduated from E & A up to this time. Our hopes are high for the future, as we go into the world to compete for standing in our chosen fields.

Class Will

WE, THE CLASS OF 1949 of the Howard University School of Engineering and Architecture, declare this to be our last will and testament. We give, bequeath, and devise to the Class of 1950 in complete and perfect ownership, all rights and property of every claim and nature, whether real, personal, or mixed, wherever situated, appointing you executrix, without bond and giving you seisin thereof.

To the Civil Engineering Department:

1. The ability to solve all dam problems concerning dam projects.
2. A mythical Clancy to lower the boom on all helium heads.
3. A wolf-whistle that blows when surveyors focus their transit on a "contoured benchmark."

To the Mechanical Engineering Department:

1. One acorn and two cubic feet of soil to insure a sufficient supply of lumber for the "wood-turning" class.

To the Air ROTC:

1. One 1931, 9-cylinder Wright-cyclone radial engine, with the hope that Congress will allocate sufficient funds for a fuselage.

To the Electrical Engineering Department:

1. One half-closed electric eye for protection against petty locker breakers.

2. The constants of the transmission line which runs from the Grand Coulee Dam to Bonneyville with corona effects at Midway.

To the Architecture Department:

1. The right to obtain a new system of criticism.
2. Two one-burner candles of 1.001 candle-power each, to alleviate the eyestrain due to insufficient lighting and the right to have classes on Sundays and all legal holidays so that they may finish the prescribed course in 4.999 years.

To the Student Body in General:

1. A curve that can be raised by any student—a French curve.
2. An intuitive slide rule that is self-setting and guarantees an accuracy of 99.6%.
3. One de-mumbler that interprets all low mumbles, whines, and whistles.

This ends the will of the Class of 1949. Having fulfilled our duties to the best of our ability, we do hereby subscribe our name and affix our seal to this document, witnessed by:

IN 1947, the Student Council of the School of Engineering and Architecture decided to abandon the old practice of sponsoring a news column in the Hill-top, and to publish a newspaper of its own. A staff of volunteers was organized, and a contest was held for the purpose of choosing a name for the new publication. The purpose of this paper was to provide a means of expression for the students of Engineering and Architecture, to bring to light problems to be faced in the engineering world, and to acquaint other members of the U with happenings in the Engineering School. The first Slipstick was released in December, 1947. The editor is elected by ballot, and becomes a Council member. Other members of the staff are volunteers. The paper is published quarterly.

The National Technical Association

The National Technical Association is an association of Negro technical men. The object of this organization is to collect and disseminate the information concerning the opportunities of Negroes in the technical and engineering fields, to aid and encourage Negro youth in preparation for these fields, to advance science and engineering in all of its branches, to promote the interest of the profession among the darker races, and to break down the barriers in the profession due to race prejudice. Student affiliates of the National Technical Association are shown below.

A. I. E. E.

The first students of the Howard University Electrical Engineering Department became student members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers in November, 1948.

The objective of the Institute is the advancement of the theory and practice of electrical engineering, and the maintenance of a high professional standing among its members. This organization affords opportunities for independent activity and initiative on the part of students, and for cultivating qualities needed by the engineer, which are not offered in the classrooms and laboratories.

SENIOR EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Moot Court

THE "courtroom scene" has again been brought to Howard University Law School. In 1946, after several years' absence, a practice trial court was re-established under the supervision of Dean George M. Johnson and his faculty.

In the trial court, the student prepares and presents a case for trial as he would in actual practice. He files pleadings and motions, impanels the jury, examines and cross-examines witnesses, and makes his arguments to the court and jury. He learns that the law books and legal writings are his tools and that the success of his client depends upon his skill in utilizing these tools to the best advantage.

The job of the student in the practice court is difficult and the labor is long, but he soon realizes and appreciates the infinite value of his experience as a "lawyer" in the practice court.

Highlights of the Class of '49

. . . And came 1946! More than fifty inspired students enrolled as first year students in the Howard University School of Law.

The history of the class for the first two years is interwoven with experiences both hazardous and pleasant. Hazardous . . . like the many mornings we "eager beavers" arrived just a few minutes before our eight o'clock class and froze—while the "personnel" of the University marched in and closed the door. . . . And the eternities we suffered while our grades were being determined. But then the final gripe, our names and grades were posted on the bulletin board. Pleasant . . . like Charter Day and holidays—no classes.

During the orientation period we found out that learning to "make like a lawyer" was more complicated than most of us had imagined. But in spite of the fact that we were confined to law books, we found time to organize, that first year. Victor Cook was elected president, Halcott Bradley, vice-president, Peggy Strauss, secretary, Hazel Tucker, treasurer, and Lemuel Sipuel, sergeant at arms. John Thomas and James Overton represented us on the Court of Peers.

The political campaign of the second year was staged by the supporters of Damon Keith, whose vote-winning prowess assured him the opportunity to be the most outstanding Chief Justice of the Court of Peers in many years. The peculiar feature about the "man of the year" is that he has fulfilled his campaign pledges. (U.S. politicians, take note.)

We elected new officers for the year 1947-48. They were Dorsey Lane, president, James Overton, vice-president, Lucille J. Williams, secretary, Hazel Tucker, treasurer, Lemuel Sipuel, sergeant at arms. Wilbur Sewell and Halcott Bradley represented us on the Court of Peers.

During the school year 1947-48, we celebrated with the faculty the "restrictive covenant" decision, because we felt we had a part in the victory. We paid strict attention to all cases involving "Civil Rights" and crowded the Supreme Court to hear those cases argued.

The third year found us a more closely knit body. At this point we had no illusion that the study of law had ceased to be a seven-day proposition. James Overton was elected president of the Senior Class, "Bob" Campbell, vice-president, Lucille J. Williams, secretary, and Compton Taylor, treasurer. Hazel Tucker and Joseph Hines were named to the Court of Peers. Several class members who acted as heads of committees distinguished themselves by their cooperation, initiative, and service. Robert Hainsworth and his Program Committee procured speakers for various class meetings. Among the speakers were Atty. George E. C. Hays, Professor Howard Jenkins, Judge James A. Cobb, and Mr. William Coleman, clerk to Mr. Justice Felix Frankfurter. Leona Pouncey served as chairman of the Social Committee. The committee set a record for class entertainment.

Fond memories of our third year are the Court of Peers Dance at Carver Hall and the Class Christmas Party, held at the Dunbar Hotel Lounge. Our fond hope is that Howard Law students will soon have a building of their own.

We represent a cross-section of the United States—from the Far West to the Near East, from South to North. One of us comes from the Virgin Islands.

Upon graduation, what was once a physical unit becomes a group spread thin. Each student will carry in his heart a warm spot for the Howard University Law School—for the fine grade of instruction from interested teachers and for the many friendships which have been fostered here.

We look forward to glorious careers. Wish us luck!

BARRISTERS BALL COMMITTEE

Portia Club

THE Portia Club is a group of Law School women organized by Mrs. Jane Marshall Lucas in the fall of 1947.

Each woman student is entitled to assume the rights and duties of membership. The aims of the group are social and professional.

Members are Lucille J. Williams, president, Charlie Lovett, vice-president, Leona Pouncey, secretary, Mrs. Jane Lucas, acting treasurer, Julia Cooper, Wilada Bradley, Shirley Jones, Dovey Roundtree, Romae Turner, Anne Brown, Peggy Strauss, Hazel Tucker, "Mickey" Bryan, and Ruth Harvey.

Gov. William H. Hastie, of the Virgin Islands, and Congresswoman Helen Gahagan Douglass were among the distinguished guests present at the Court of Peers dinner.

Earl G. Harrison, Dean of the University of Pennsylvania Law School, pointed out the outstanding contribution to contemporary jurisprudence being made by Howard faculty.

Mr. Keith, the Chief Justice of the Court of Peers, pledged student support for the 1949-50 academic year.

Kappa Pi Medical Society

KAPPA PI was founded March 16, 1926, at Howard Medical School. The idea of such a society was conceived by Dr. John J. Goldsberry in an effort to combat the disunity among the medical students resulting from rivalry between different fraternity groups.

The aims of Kappa Pi are the promotion of scholarship and research in medical school, the encouragement of a high standard of character among medical students and graduates, and the recognition of high attainment in medical school, practice, and related fields.

The present members of Kappa Pi listed in the order of their scholastic standings in their respective classes are as follows:

Seniors: Paul Guth, president; William Gibson, vice-president; Edward Mason, secretary; Joseph Parker, treasurer; Carolyn Hammond; Angella D. Ferguson; Samuel Brisbane; Charles Augustus; Dorothea Simmons; William Edmondson; George Stansbury; Oswald Nickens and Harry Martin.

Juniors: Wendell Lucas, Martin Katzman, Donald Brooks, Charles Hunter, Lloyd Jorsling and Cyril Crocker.

Chi Delta Mu Fraternity

Chi Delta Mu Fraternity was established and incorporated under the laws of the District of Columbia at the Howard University Medical School in 1913. This fraternity's aims are to unite the men who are pursuing or have finished their formal training in the medical, dental, and pharmaceutical professions in order that, through organization and cooperative enterprise, the highest ideals of professional ethics may be kept alive. The fraternity house on "T" street is the regular meeting place for Chi men and their friends, as well as various clubs and sororities.

Our Past . . .

THREE years and five short months ago, we entered the College of Medicine—a new class—sixty-nine strong, collected from all corners of the United States and its protective Isles, and dedicated to the proposition that we were all capable of becoming doctors.

Unique we were in that we were endowed with the charms and graces of nineteen comely females. We dare say that never before in the history of this, or any other medical school in this country (except those especially for women), has any other class been so endowed.

Soon we were engaged in the bloody battles of Anatomy, Bio-chemistry, and Bacteriology—testing whether we, who were so endowed and so dedicated, could long endure. After a nine months' siege, we emerged victorious, having lost only four of our original band.

During the summer we rested while our wounds healed and returned in the fall of '46 with renewed strength and determination. We were joined by four new members, which kept our number constant.

A memorable year was this and, except for a few uncomfortable days in Physiology, occasioned by the untimely death of a dog or the collapse of the apparatus, it was very pleasant. We even had the time and energy for two dances, the smoker, and a party. The struggle was neither long nor hard and consequently our casualties were few. At the end of the year our number was sixty-six.

Then came the testing year—the term 1947-48. Two new members were added to our ranks. We needed the additional strength because we were constantly besieged from September to June. Exams, operations, ward work, never a moment's letup. We stumbled wearily however, through and scurried to our respective homes to gain strength and renew our courage for the finale.

Two of our number did not return in the fall. Only sixty-six sagacious seniors swaggered through the austere portals of the medical school. After one week in the outpatient clinics and a few dozen missed diagnoses, this swagger had diminished to a slow trudge.

With two successful quarters behind us, however, the old swagger and confidence have returned and today, we stand sixty-six strong, hopeful, prayerful, and anxiously looking forward to launching out into a lifetime of service to mankind.

W. MONTAGUE COBB

"The Master" . . . "Now just relax my Christian brother"
... "It is later than you think" . . .
Great Anatomist, Anthropologist, and exponent of Greek Mythology

VERNON A. WILKERSON

Famous for Snowstorms, English Tweeds, Rapidity of Thought, and even greater Rapidity of Speech, Dramatic exits at end of lecture periods.

ROSCOE L. MCKINNEY

Great Microbiologist, Protégé of Maximow and Bloom. Likes to draw on blackboard with deep purple crayon. Famous for ninety-page assignments and daily quizzes. Insists that his students read all the fine print.

LLOYD H. NEWMAN

A true character, indeed. Loved by all. Famous for movements of the arms, and his wit.

RUTH E. MOORE

Creator of weird practicals. "You are three seconds late, so please come back next time." Likes to give little quizzes at the most unexpected times.

M. WHARTON YOUNG

A great teacher. "What's the lesson about for today?" Famous for the movements of his eyes, laughter, and research in baldness.

ROBERT S. JASON

A great scholar. Famous for rapid speech and polymorphonuclear cells. Chief umpire in all the pathological conferences.

ARTHUR H. WEBB

Likes fresh laboratory specimens. Creator of weird practicals and exams.

A. H. MALONEY

Very jovial and humorous. Likes to talk about his BARBITURATES.
Still remembers the time when he ate his first plate of chitterlings, which are so rich in ventriculin.

PAUL B. CORNELLY

How many figures can a man keep in his head?
Likes to talk about the number of deaths due to pneumonia in 1919 or 1899 or any other year.
Famous for bright ties and dimensions of the PIT PRIVY.

Seems to know everything.
Famous for orals and discussions of MITRAL STENOSIS.

RILEY F. THOMAS

So smooth and distinguished looking.
Famous for his long stethoscope and bedside manners.
Loves to talk about infectious diseases, especially Typhoid, Kala-Azar, and Big Heel.
Great exponent of clinical diagnostic procedures.
Likes Endocrinology, especially Diabetes Mellitus.
Also famous for his speech and mannerisms.

RANDOLPH KELLY BROWN

Reads everything that's printed except the green sheet.
Happiest when expounding on any medical subject.
Famous for his "brief" two or three hour discussions on Peptic Ulcer or Gallbladder disease.
Knows every Syndrome in existence.

E. Y. WILLIAMS

"When I was at Bell-ee-vue." Great Neurologist.

JUSTIN M. HOPE

Everybody's favorite psychiatrist.
Can remember everything.
Ardent baseball fan.
Famous for pacing the floor during his lectures.

CHARLES R. DREW

So dynamic and impressive. "These things are didactic—these things you must know."
Famous for his work in Plasma Research, dramatic appearances at Monday morning ward rounds, and knitted ties.

BURKE SYPHAX

Very smooth and handsome.
Gives some great lectures, also a very cool and neat surgeon.
Ardent sports fan.

FRANK JONES

Great capitalist. Outstanding Urologist.
Famous for his very comprehensive exams which tend to be quite rough.
Causes much anxiety and excitement during first and second quarters of the Junior year.
Likes his "hole cards."

J. RICHARD LAUREY

The great "headwhipper." "Where are my heads today?"
Likes to stress the fundamentals, especially Anatomy and Physiology.
Great Thoracic Surgeon.

HENRY S. ROBINSON

Likes to have an audience. Talks loud and draws a crowd.

JAMES GLADDEN

Quiet and unassuming.

DONALD KELLER

E.K.G. expert.

Lover, admirer and follower of horses.

Likes big "hole cards."

JULIAN W. ROSS

Great traditionalist, Obstetrician, and Gynecologist.

Famous for his voluminous notes. "That's a good place to stop."

COLERIDGE M. GILL

Likes to pilot his plane, when not delivering babies or operating.

Has a great sense of humor.

ROLAND B. SCOTT

Likes to read.

Always asking questions.

BLANCHE BOURNE

Adds a very pleasing touch of glamour to the Pediatrics Department and to the hospital as a whole.

Famous for the latest Paris and Fifth Avenue styles, and exciting coiffures. Sitting in her lectures is a pleasure that will never be forgotten.

A. DeG. Smith

Full of wit and very humorous.

Famous for working "out in the field" and carrying big rolls of loot.

EDWIN J. WATSON

Very witty.

Famous for his quotations from English Literature . . .

"Thine eyes are the windows of thy soul."

HOWARD M. PAYNE

Eminent Phthisiologist. So heavy and yet so nonchalant and unassuming.

K. ALBERT HARDEN

Sees everything on chest films . . . little confluent soft spots, strands, and minute rarefactions. Probably thinks all students are blind.

CHARLES H. KELLEY

Always cool, calm, and collected. Is well convinced that all students are blind after teaching Radiology for several years. Thinks everyone should be able to read a film in thirty seconds.

CALVIN B. LeCOMPTE

Always telling jokes, keeps everybody laughing.

Likes to talk about Baltimore City.

Our Future

LAST Monday evening, as I sat in Principles of Operative Surgery, valiantly attempting to ward off the almost irresistible embrace of Morpheus, my astral self suddenly seemed to be projected into time and I found myself in the middle of March 1969.

I had just interviewed my last patient and I was not too sure whether it was she or I who needed psychiatric care. I sank wearily into the nearest chair and began to riffle through the day's mail. Well, what do you know! An invitation to Charter Day Exercises and the Charter Day Dinner at Howard University. Just the excuse I needed to get away from it all. I hurriedly packed, boarded a Stratoliner and in a matter of hours landed at the National Airport in Washington.

Walton Johnson, now associate Professor of Medicine, who was to be my host, met me at the airport and we drove rather leisurely through a Washington which overtly had remained the same for 20 years. That evening I was pleasantly surprised when I came down for cocktails to find Joe Parker, who had recently published his revolutionary work on the management of transverse position in primipara. Same ol' Joe, except for a few more pounds and a few less hairs. Dr. and Mrs. Stansbury were there also. Stan had succeeded in buying three-fourths of Havre de Grace, with the proceeds of his lucrative general practice. Vermelle and Joe Dyer dropped by but only stayed a minute because they had left their sixteen-year-old daughter's birthday party. She mentioned that Imogene Johnson, who was practising with her husband in Indiana, would not be able to come down for Charter Day as she had planned. Drs. Aris T. and Faye Allen came over about an hour later. They have four sons now. Faye had tidings of many of our old classmates. Angella Ferguson was part owner and Medical Director of a hospital in, of all places—Florida. Harry Martin had established a flourishing practice in Denver and his triplet sons, Harold, Herman, and Harvey, were premedical students on the Hill. Oscar Graves, Calvin Sinnette, Sam Brisbane, and Tommy Jones were all urban physicians, having offices in the heart of Rushmore Center (formerly Harlem). Arthur Sarau and Henry Paul both fell in love with the beauty of California, or should we say California's beauties, married and had passed these last few years in affluence as prominent coastal physicians.

After digesting all these startling facts while ingesting a few dry martinis, we all left for Charter Day Dinner. You'll never know how near I came to fainting when the Head of the Anatomy Department, acting master of ceremonies, turned out to be Ben Walker. Edward Mason also sat at the speaker's table. He was receiving the alumni award for having found a cure for aleukemic leukemia. During the course of the evening we met Dr. and Mrs. Juan Montier (Carolyn Hammond). They flew up in their private plane from their Texas ranch. She retired from practice ten years ago. The family numbers four now. Johnnie Gilchrist came up from Durham. He told us that William Edmondson (remember Footsie?) was now head of the Department of Urology at a famous North Carolina hospital. Timms and Powell, we learned, had a large maternity hospital and well baby clinic in El Paso, Texas. Lucien Lewis, surgeon in chief at Flint Goodrich Hospital in New Orleans, nodded recognition from his table in the far corner of the room.

Paul Guth, Head of the Department of Medicine at King's County in New York City and consulting Gastroenterologist for Mt. Sinai and Sydenham, sent a congratulatory telegram to Mason as he was unable to come. On the following day at the Class of '49's reunion dinner many more familiar faces appeared. Leslie Winston, Andrew Woods, Clifton Quick were all practising in the Greater Washington area and as staff men at Freedmen's. Ralph Boulware, who came down for the occasion from Delaware, brought us news of John Latham and Bill Hayling, the most popular physicians in New Jersey. He also told us that Talmadge Pinckney was driving down from his home in the hills of Pennsylvania (near Pittsburgh). Cecil Ward, assistant professor of Radiology, came in a little later with Frank Lester, who had taken over the Department of Biochemistry last year. Just prior to the introduction of the Speaker, William Gibson, now chief of Medicine at Freedmen's, I heard a slight stir at the door and a piping voice say, "Well, I made it," and turned to see, no, it couldn't be, but it was, Florinda Cambridge, just up from Nassau, where she had just been recuperating from her fourth divorce. She didn't look a day older nor was she one iota more self-contained. She had been on a jaunt on all the islands in the Caribbean chain. She announced that Elena Molano was busy practising in Puerto Rico with her Pedro, and incidentally there was one little Pedro. Luis Tegada had also set up a lucrative practice there. She had seen Pearl Romeo when she stopped in Haiti. Pearl was just down for a visit. She had retired from practice. Pearl told her that Janie Williams was engaged in Pediatrics—that is, with her own offspring. Telegrams were received from the following who were unable to attend: Lelabelle Freeman—in Los Angeles, Charles Augustus—in India, still in the army, by the way, Charles Clark—who now lives off the income from his thoroughbreds, Luther Downer—handling a tremendous practice in Atlanta, Clarence Foria—who was practising in New Orleans, Blair Hunt—who had become a famous Boston surgeon.

Just at this point of reading the list of members who had sent telegrams, the sequence was rudely interrupted by the very cultured voice of Dr. Drew intoning, "Next paper, please." With a start, I sat up and looked around, the calendar said 1949, the clock 5:45 P.M., and Amy Mills began her paper on a study of appendectomies done in this hospital since 1941.

Still who knows whether the scenes envisioned on this balmy afternoon represented fact or phantasy? Only time can tell.

MUSIC

Howard University's School of Music Looks to the Future

THE School of Music of Howard University has played a distinguished role in the development of music in American life since its first tentative beginnings in 1885. Foundations were laid by Miss Lulu V. Childers with her appointment as the first director of the School in 1906. Under her leadership the years were witness to the expansion of facilities, the increase of personnel, the acquisition of equipment and the enrichment of the scope and influence of its work.

Dean Warner Lawson

Today, music at Howard University stands at an important crossroad in its history. It has the distinction of being first among Negro schools to offer the Mus.B. degree and now, in the face of the most gigantic struggle in American history when old ideas and habits are being discarded and history is being re-written every day, it accepts the challenge of being the only School of Music in Negro Universities.

The School of Music became a member of the National Association of Schools of Music in 1947 and the following year, the Alpha Delta Chapter of Pi Kappa Lambda, national music honor society, was installed at Howard University.

At present, there are enrolled in the school 205 students who are pursuing courses of study which lead to the Bachelor of Music degree in one of the following major subjects: Music Education, Music History, Orchestral Instruments, Theory, Piano, Voice, Organ and Violin.

The objectives of the School of Music are fourfold: to afford adequate opportunity for the finest training possible to professional students in the understanding, performance and creation of music; to contribute to the students' cultural development through opportunity for work in liberal arts subjects; to undertake an important role in revitalizing creative activity in our unique field of indigenous music; and to motivate and stimulate scholarly research in this field.

PI KAPPA LAMBDA

May 7, 1948—The installation of ALPHA DELTA Chapter of the Society of PI KAPPA LAMBDA, National Honorary Music Society, the first chapter of its kind on any Negro campus. Honorary members are Dr. R. A. Lawson, father of the present dean, and Dr. Roland Hayes, both eminent musicians.

TUTORIAL STAFF, 1948-49

The Tutorial Staff is composed of the following members: Left to right: Ellsworth Janifer, Roy Carter, and Thomas Flagg. Second row: Vernon Edwards, Eva Long, Margaret Wilson, May Lanier, Ernestine Rollins and Roland Samber. Back row: Eugene Simpson, Henry Edmonds and Henry Kindlam.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY CHOIR

Dean Warner Lawson, conductor

The University choral organization has achieved outstanding recognition from its performances in many of the major cities of the United States. The choir is composed of seventy singers, men and women, under the direction of the Dean of the School of Music, and is open to all students with vocal talent.

HOWARD UNIVERSITY SYMPHONIC BAND

Class Will—School of Music

WE, THE members of the graduating class of the School of Music of Howard University, being of sound mind and body, do declare this to be our last will and testament. This disposition shall and does annul and revoke all previous wills and all subsequent wills.

1. We hereby bequeath, to all our legal heirs and classmates, all of our worldly goods, troubles, difficulties, happinesses, and other belongings that we have acquired in our educational endeavors.

2. To our lovable and incomparable Dean Lawson we bequeath a 99-year lease on the future of our class. As the leasee, it shall be his duty to watch over the progress of this class with a never-ending vigil. He will make an account of our trials, tribulations, achievements, failures, and successes, knowing that they are the results of his untiring and devoted efforts toward our education.

3. To our amiable department heads, we bequeath increased portions of their patience, understanding, and interest, with which they have worked so diligently to help us solve our academic and personal problems.

4. To our worthy and esteemed faculty we leave smaller classes, better students, better equipment, and the hope that their efforts will yield better fruits.

5. To the Junior Class we leave the experiences of our Senior Class, hoping they will profit by these experiences and be a much better Senior Class than we were.

6. To the Sophomore Class we pass on a spirit of endeavor, the determination and the courage with which we have been able to come thus far in our journey through life.

7. To the Freshman Class we bequeath a "master pony" which has been compiled over a period of five years. With this instrument, plus undaunted determination, we hope that they will learn the intricacies of musical education.

8. To the entire student body of the School of Music we bequeath the following:

- a. An aging promise for new buildings and better facilities.
- b. Our sincerest wishes for a successful journey down the avenue of education.
- c. An ever-present reminder that success is getting what you want and happiness is wanting what you get.

Here we do solemnly appoint our executor, Charles C. Cohen, to carry out this, the last will and testament of the Class of '49. No portion of this will shall be construed to abrogate our right to disinherit any of our heirs at any future date.

In confirmation whereof we do set our sign and seal.

Signed,

THE CLASS OF '49

In witness whereof I do set my seal and signature.

Class Prophecy—School of Music

IT IS now evening, and the cool, quiet dignity of the great Hall of International Musicians is touched only by the memories of the quiet, reserved group moving to the magnificent Inner Banquet Room given over to the most select gatherings.

As the people enter the room and see each other distinctly, their demeanor suddenly changes, as ice which breaks in the warm sun. After thirty years, the class of '49, Howard University, is still unchanged, with its love of life and for each other remaining steadfast.

Seated at the great dining table (the place cards give the original names of the people who are gathered here) are: Ollie Brown, the famed concert artist of Concert Hall, Thomas Collier, three-time winner of the Redding Foundation Award for vocal composition, and Doris Galiber, one of the great voices of music, who is examining a little pendant which is suspended from her neck. This is a token from the Council of Nations in appreciation of her many benefit performances for the world's underprivileged. Next at this illustrious table is Cynthia Gibson, Grand Chairman of the Music Educators of America.

The regal bearing of the table's next occupant proclaims the presence of the magnificent Gladys Keys, acclaimed not only by audiences, but by critics and conductors in the world's greatest music centers. Seated at the next place is Eva Vance Long, the moving power behind the noted School for Music Educators, Alma Mater to the heads of almost every large school in America.

The next card reads, "John Coppock," and seated here is the Father of Great Orchestras across four countries. At his elbow is the voice that has thrilled millions across the continents, Geneva Moore. The next place is given to the twice-elected president of Music Educators of America, Darleyne Nelson.

Here the table curves, and, glancing a little to the right, one sees Henry Edmonds, revered head of the Alliance of Composers. Seated at his right is Marian Redd, the woman who has coordinated the intricate workings of the school for Higher Echelon Training of Department Heads.

The card at the next place is needless, for no one could mistake the world-famous pianist, Thomas Flagg, sitting in quiet dignity with the humility which has stamped the character of his music. In the next seat is Romaine Simmons, queen among singers, maintaining that personality which has made her outstanding amid great musicians. At her side is Gloria Smith, prima donna of the Metropolitan Opera House.

The calm dignity, so characteristic in her fire of virtuosity at the piano, is evident in Mildred Strider, artist of the Strider School for Concert Pianists. The next seat is occupied by Lillian Stroud, Vice-Chairman and Dean of the Music Educators of America.

The gently grayed temples of the next personage announce the presence of Relford Patterson, the grand old man of vocal technique, who has given the world many of its best-equipped singers. No such gathering would be complete without the presence of the marvelous Monique Taylor, who combines two careers—lecturer on the techniques of music education, and possessor of the violin of silver tone.

Reading the next card, one sees the name, Naomi Martin, which brings memories of great organ recitals to audiences throughout the land. The next guest needs no introduction, for it is Chester Rowlett, violinist extraordinaire, eclipsing even Paganini of the Nineteenth Century.

Centuries may pass before such a gathering of musical entities will converge, but their influences will be felt throughout the lands where art and culture are the goals of human aspiration.

We, the faculty, wish you Bon Voyage. . . .

Class Will

THE Senior Class of Nurses being of sound and disposing mind and memory and about to depart, do publish and declare this to be our last will and testament.

The Class of '49 wills to the Class of '50 the first row of seats in Medical Nursing and to the present classes and classes to come, their ability to cooperate, understand, and love one another. Strive to be among the best.

Ann Marcus wills her clean and neat room to Joanne Johnson and also her habit of nail biting.

To Barbara Lively, Aranna Anderson leaves her outstanding ability in basketball.

Florence Cunningham, Elaine Delahoussaye and Norma Sabino, "the team," will their love for a variety of men to Evelyn Rollins, Vera Francis and Melba Jones. Also their telephone calls to Jacquelin Driver and Dorothy Smith.

Ruby Patterson wills her dancing ability to Katie Harris and her singing off-key to Dorothy Copeland. Also 28 cents to Doris Jackson to enable her to go to Alexandria every week end.

Mary Wilcher wills her long sleeping hours to Ella Blassingame and her sewing ability to Ella Jacobs.

To Annabelle Dill, Theresa Brown wills a few inches of her height; also to Francesca Logan her explosive temper.

Florence Nightingale Oath

I solemnly pledge myself before God and in the presence of this assembly, to pass my life in purity and to practice my profession faithfully. I will abstain from whatever is deleterious and mischievous and will not take or knowingly administer any harmful drugs. I will do all in my power to maintain and elevate the standards of my profession and will hold in confidence all personal matters committed to my keeping and all family affairs coming to my knowledge in the practice of my calling. With loyalty will I endeavor to aid the physician in his work, and devote myself to the welfare of those committed to my care.

History of Class of January, '49

EAGER beavers and twelve strong, we started at Freedmen's School of Nursing, January 3rd, 1946, with great hope and an earnest desire to become Florence Nightingales of our generation.

The going was rugged (but what going isn't?), several fell by the wayside (this also happens), several stumbled but recovered to continue the journey (sickness and accidents had their part), and so, we have reached our goal—eight strong.

We have achieved our goal! We will, as best we can, carry our knowledge into the world in our individual way, in our individually chosen field, in our individually chosen place.

Our common goal is to serve humanity to the best of our ability wherever needed, whenever needed, and to help whomever we can.

Words cannot express our gratitude to the faculty of our Alma Mater for their untiring efforts and conscientious interest in our welfare at all times.

Summation:

We came, we learned, we parted from Washington,
We were happy to have one as Miss Katherine Alston.
We studied, worked and fretted, no time to talk shop,

As per our "Student Organization" leader, Miss Beatrice Bishop.

We were shown the highways and byways of this Metropolis,

By our cooperative local lass, Miss Marguerite Davis.

We give our thanks for humor and fun, "ter,"

Our Kentuckian, Miss Katherine Hodges, now Mrs. John Hunter.

We always remembered special occasion presents,

By way of our quiet, Miss Eloise Pleasant.

We were always represented and, thus, on the scene,

By our pert Miss Alice Woodson, now Mrs. Curtis Queen.

We were kept much in line, for many a good reason,

By our conservative New Jerseyite, Miss Elaine Richardson.

And last but not least, we'll not boycott,

Our winsome Georgia peach, Miss Jimmie Dell Scott.

Thus, to Freedmen's, Howard University, too,

Our professors, instructors, advisors, none taboo,

To the faculty, underclassmates, matrons and such,

We've got to leave, but we'll miss you very much!

History of Class of September, '49

IT ALL began September 18, 1946, when fifteen probies entered nurses' training, filled with anxiety, hope, and happiness.

The get-acquainted party given in our honor soon after our arrival was enjoyed by all. Norma Sabino gave a piano selection, Aranna Anderson recited some original poems and Theresa Brown delivered an impromptu address.

There did not seem to be enough time to see everything—hospital, nurses' home, campus, city, etc. How we envied the upperclassmen in their pretty blue and white uniforms and looked forward to the day when we would wear ours.

Then came the studies, the Anatomy and Physiology, History of Nursing, Chemistry, Nursing Arts, and many others. The classes were interesting but often not half so much so as the laughs and jokes afforded by the instructors openly as well as by the notes and exchanged glances. We thought it was impossible to learn all that those books contained, but we managed.

November 26, 1946, when our uniforms arrived, what excitement! Some too long, others too short, some too tight, others too loose. Few really fitted. The black shoes and stockings completed our probie uniform and were we proud of it. It was a few days later, December 3, to be exact, when we first went on the wards. How nervous we were, and each swore that she had forgotten how to make a bed and give a bath. How much fun it was that night to compare accidents and incidents.

The most important night was March 14—Capping. For six months we had looked forward to this one day, and here it was at last. So much to do! Hairdressers, welcoming families and friends, assembling uniforms, purchasing white shoes and stockings, and numerous other things. The sad part of bidding good-bye to our classmates who did not make it brought tears into the eyes of all of us. How proudly we said the Florence Nightingale pledge. This night the remaining eleven, no longer the preclinical of 1946, but the future graduating class of 1949, highly resolved to be, if not the best, one of the best classes to enter and graduate from this school. Our new uniforms, no longer black shoes and stockings, but sparkling white plus a cap and bib. Every spare moment of the next few days was spent parading the campus to make sure that everyone saw us in our new outfit.

The second day after capping began our first eight hour working day. What a change from two hours a day on a ward to eight hours. Oh, the aching feet and backs!

When, shortly after this, we elected officers, the great small body began truly to function. Our class magistrates, as they were elected, remained—even until the present.

President—Aranna Anderson

Vice President—Elaine Delahoussaye

Recording Secretary—Florence Cunningham

Corresponding Secretary—Theresa Brown

Treasurer—Ann Marcus

Student Council representatives—Mary Wilcher, Ruby Patterson, and Norma Sabino.

Class sponsor, Miss Nettie O. Wiggs.

Oh, those class meetings and midnight parties. Food from home certainly came in handy.

Vacation time at last, from August 18, 1947, to September 18, 1947. Each went her own way and returned with many interesting experiences. We returned to find the new probie class of thirty-three members already here. Getting acquainted with them was fun, and now we were juniors. How good it sounded!

Our first Christmas—almost heart breaking. Some worked, some did not, some had late leaves, others did not. Many tears were shed and many calls were made to homes. At four A.M. Christmas morning we stumbled around the hospital, still half asleep, singing carols to the patients.

As the months passed, the various parties and dances kept us occupied when our studies did not. Our April Fool's dance was a great success.

Our Class picnic in Benedict, Md., on July 10, 1948, was a happy and exciting one. We thought we would never get there. We coasted down one hill and walked up six, arriving hours later than we had originally anticipated. Then the fun began—swimming, soft ball, etc. Florence Cunningham and Ruby Patterson decided to go rowing with a broken oar. Three hours later a rescue party of four brought them in, practically exhausted. Everyone was hungry by this time and beer, potato salad, ham, potato chips, pickles, olives, etc., served their purpose.

A dinner given the class by Miss Cammon on July 19, 1948, was thoroughly enjoyed by all. We left for vacation on July 23, 1948, and returned August 24, 1948. How nice to return on time to welcome the probies.

Seniors at last, with the presentation of black bands on September 18, 1948. How proudly we wore our bands! It was nice being referred to as a senior.

Our next affair was a Pre-Halloween Dance, October 29, 1948, and we worked hard to make it the success that it was.

Now we are on our way out. The blind alleys and dead ends are behind us. With pride and self satisfaction we breathe a sigh of relief and gratitude. Throughout all, unity has been our password. We entered together, worked together, struggled together, laughed together, lamented together, and now we shall graduate and leave our Alma Mater.

Follow in our footsteps, and forget us not.

CAMPUS CANDIDS

THE NEWMAN CLUB

The Newman Club was organized to provide an opportunity for Catholic students to plan and participate in social, cultural and recreational activities. Left to right—Seated: Doris Jackson, Hope Humphrey, Elaine Delahoussaye and Inez Gaudin. Standing: Dorothy Smith, Miss Clara Royster, R.N., sponsor, and Melba Jones.

CHI ETA PHI SORORITY

Beta Chapter of Chi Eta Phi Sorority was organized to encourage and develop superior standards of womanhood, scholarship and professional fitness. Members of the organization are (seated left to right): Velmarie Nicholson, Aranna Anderson and Annie Marcus. Standing: Mary Wilcher, Ella Jacobs and Elaine Williams.

Remember When

—A certain intern sent probie Theresa Brown around the hospital in search of a Fallopian tube.

—Aranna Anderson went out in a pour with Harry and didn't realize that it was raining.

—Annie Marcus ordered a Martini, thinking it was a sandwich.

—Mrs. Seymour climbed a ladder and looked through the transom to awaken Ruby Patterson.

—Our class meetings began at 12 p.m.

—Norma Sabino spoke only when spoken to.

—We all stayed up all night studying for the Bacteriology Final.

—Norma Sabino and Elaine Delahoussaye got up at 4 a.m. to witness their first snowfall.

—Mary Wilcher used to have those unexplainable episodes of herpes simplex.

Prophecy of Class of '49

AS I gaze into my magic sphere
Many bygone classmates do appear.
I'll tell you now what some have done,
What some will do in years to come.

Properly attired in cap, mask, and gown,
Calm and efficient is Aranna Anderson.
The surgeons in M. O. R. are never let down,
She keeps instruments ready and knows how to handle them.

The name Florence has always meant
A light to our noble profession,
And Florence Cunningham life has spent
Delivering baby after baby in succession.

A New Jersey hospital sent out a vacancy call
For an obstetrical nurse to promptly reply.
One did—a capable one so slender and tall,
'Twas Theresa Brown who did comply.

A flighty head nurse I chanced to see
Performing her duties most frantically.
Annie Marcus is this head nurse's name
And she has risen to greatest fame.

None but the "heavy" and that she is
Could make the progress that Ruby Patterson has
In specialized medicine, this nurse is a whizz,
With students days and worries far in the past.

Oh, how the children laugh, run, and play
When nurse Mary Wilcher comes their way,
A lover of children we proudly unfold
Her field, Pediatrics, well foretold.

Well, here's a lass the men all love,
She dresses their wounds and soothes their pains,
They are awakened from anesthetic by the voice of a dove.
Elaine Delahoussaye in Male Surgery has won fame.

The Virgin Islands have greatly advanced
Due to her contributions that will never fade,
For Norma Sabino did find out by chance
That for Obstetrical Nursing she was made.

CARTER

The Oath of Maimonides

The eternal providence has appointed me to watch over the life and health of Thy creatures. May the love for my art actuate me at all times, may neither avarice nor miserliness, nor thirst for glory, or for a great reputation, engage my mind, for the enemies of truth and philanthropy could easily deceive me and make me forgetful of my lofty aim of doing good to Thy children. May I never see in the patient anything but a fellow creature in pain. Grant me strength, time, and opportunity always to correct what I have acquired, always to extend its domain, for knowledge is immense and the spirit of man can extend infinitely to enrich itself daily with new requirements. Today he can discover his errors of yesterday, and tomorrow he may obtain a new light on what he thinks himself sure of today.

O God, Thou hast appointed me to watch over the life and death of Thy creatures, here am I ready for my vocation and now I turn unto my calling.

TO THE CLASS OF 1949:

MANY of you began your pharmaceutical education before and during the past world conflict. After the crisis was over you came back to complete your course of study. You have done well.

Many opportunities in the various fields of pharmaceutical endeavor are open to you. Application, hard work, and a willingness to serve is the combination for success in your chosen profession.

The Staff and Administration join me in extending congratulations and good wishes. We shall look forward to your frequent visits.

The best of health and happiness and good fortune to all of you.

Class History—Pharmacy, 1949

ARRIVING on the campus September 26, 1945, we had the full amount of traditional green and then some. If we had known then that our first view of the campus would be one of the few that we would be able to enjoy, we would have spent more hours on it than we did. Our being uninformed was indeed unfortunate. The campus, as such, has been a sight that we saw rarely during the freshman year, and in succeeding years we became so unfamiliar with the campus that I imagine we looked like Billikins coming to New York.

On our second day at Howard we met Dean C. I. Cooper, a man who was to play an important role in our scholastic lives in the coming years. From Dean Cooper we received our orientation and were informed of what was expected of us as professional men and women. At that time we could not fully appreciate the scope and influence of his words. This was a condition that time remedied.

Although fewer in number as sophomores, we started, once more to carry on. We were determined to make our second year more successful than the first. At the beginning of the year we had our first experience with new instructors. Messrs. Peters and Agee joined the staff.

At the beginning of our junior year, we welcomed Dr. Roy C. Darlington back. He had received his doctorate from Ohio State and was returning with a wealth of knowledge to help us in our struggle. This was the year in which we were exposed to Drs. Booker, Tureman, and Maloney in the Pharmacology Department. This was a course of profound significance and one for which we were to cultivate a deep appreciation in our senior year. This year proved to be an important milestone in the life of one of our classmates. Gwendolyn Pettiford married, and is now the proud mother of a future pharmacist.

The senior year also held a substantial amount of happiness for some of our classmates. Simuel Garrett and Wilbert Grandy, two of our outstanding students, decided to take a voyage on the great sea of matrimony. Quartense Forney, having made a great decision, will follow tradition and be a June bride.

Although the senior year offered happiness, it also brought its share of work, study, anxiety, and worry.

Just as sunshine follows the rain, graduation follows study and we all feel that the day is just around the corner when we shall reap the harvest of the seeds planted during our four-year stay at Howard University.

Student Council

Theresa E. Thorpe, President

Members of Student Council

THE Student Council of the College of Pharmacy is composed of three elected members from each of the four classes. This council is a recognized governing body for all group organizations of the College of Pharmacy.

The purpose of the Student Council is to establish a relationship among the various organizations of the school, and to serve as a liaison between the student and the faculty.

The Student Council also sponsors annual social events. Among these are the welcoming party for the freshman students and participation in the Howard University Home-coming activities.

Among the possible future projects to be taken up by the Student Council are the instituting of an annual banquet for seniors, at which time awards and honors will be presented, and the establishing of the council as a legislative body, which will enable the students to have some voice in the making of the laws that govern them.

American Pharmaceutical Association

THE American Pharmaceutical Association, founded in 1852, was the first and, for a long time, the only national pharmaceutical organization. It represented, defended, and promoted all fields of pharmaceutical interest and enterprises, the scientific and educational as well as the commercial, the ethical, and the legal aspects. It created and is the guardian of all movements concerning American professional pharmacy.

The Howard University College of Pharmacy Student Branch of the A. Ph. A. was established in 1942.

Junior Class

THE LAST WILL AND TESTAMENT of the COLLEGE OF PHARMACY CLASS OF 1949

WE, THE members of the class of '49, being of unsound minds and ill health, do hereby bequeath our individual liabilities as stated herein:

Our class president, Mr. Beverly, leaves his ward, Miss Delores Douglas, to face the cold cruel world without his great protectorship.

Mr. Priestley J. Mance wills his great assortment of un-smoked pipes to anyone on his "kick" who promises never to contaminate them with tobacco. (Pipes are for prestige only.)

The Signifying Four, Tracy, Rollerson, Sligh, and Williams, will to Bolger and Bethea the fourth and fifth tables at the Diversion. Here they may obtain a B.P. (Bachelor of Pool-ology).

Mr. Leo Trotter wills his system of remembering Latin titles to some struggling sophomore. Trotter's system is simple although not acceptable. For Liniment of Soft Soap, Trotter says "Linimentum Softum Soapum."

Miss Mildred Perry leaves an invitation to everyone to visit the "Oasis in the Desert," Savannah, Georgia.

Miss T. Eris Thorpe (T.E.T.) leaves her private dressing room, locker 30, room 305, to the most qualified member of the Junior Class.

To the most uncalculating freshman, Simuel Garrett leaves his well used slide rule. (Not exact to the Nth position.)

Julius Scott wills Mr. Peters the authority to quote official assays without the "Scott Confirmation."

Miss Delores Douglas wills the Junior Class her personally autographed book, "How to Win Grades and Influence Instructors."

Mrs. Ruth W. Smith leaves her ability to ask questions to our former classmate, Mrs. Gwendolyn P. Johnson.

To all jalopy owners, Walter Daniels and Wilbert Grandy leave their great secret of how to run a car for a week on a dime's worth of gas and no oil.

Although no one wants it, Floyd Paschal leaves behind his Dr. Jekyll, Mr. Hyde character. He can talk continuously for six or seven hours while not in class, but his voice seems to leave him in the presence of an instructor.

To all sleep-loving students, John Walls leaves his treatise on "How to Sleep Your Way to a Degree in Pharmacy."

The graduating class as a whole wills its sorrows and cheers to the Class of 1950.

The Mortar and Pestle Club

THE Mortar and Pestle Club is an organization of the student body of the College of Pharmacy. In the interest of scholarship and fellowship the club sponsors programs of mutual interest to all classes of the college.

This organization had its beginning as the original Departmental Organization and was founded in 1922. The name was later changed to the Mortar and Pestle Club.

The main objectives of this organization are:

1. To assist and support other student organizations within the college in the future as in the past.
2. To support the National Pharmaceutical Association and to form a student branch in the College, and to establish close cooperation with the Washington Pharmaceutical Association.
3. To maintain an emergency small loan fund for needy students in the College of Pharmacy.
4. To encourage the establishment of an Honor Society.
5. To enlighten the pharmacy student as to the part played by Negro Pharmacist in establishing the standards and ethics of his profession.

Dean William S. Nelson

School of Religion

THE School of Religion of Howard University is fully accredited by The American Association of Theological Schools. Its regular B.D. course requires three years beyond the baccalaureate degree. The formal pursuit of courses under a highly trained faculty is supplemented by extra-curricular activities of a varied kind. Local and national speakers and scholars are enlisted to enrich the thinking of the student body through special lecture series and convocations throughout the school year.

Effort is also studiously made to relate the thinking of the students to practical social problems through affiliation with the Religion and Labor Foundation and through Inter-seminary rapport.

The officers of the Student Body are elected by the students each school year. Officers for 1948-49 are: George B. Christian, President; Fulton O. Bradley, Vice-President; Ruffin N. Noisette, Secretary; William J. Stroud, Treasurer; Joseph C. Coles, Chaplain; Charles A. Hunter, Interseminary Representative.

RELIGION

SCHOOL OF RELIGION BUILDING

To the Senior Class

THE Christian cause puts a special responsibility upon young men who have been educated for religious leadership in our world today. Men in religion, as well as all who have studied here in this institution, find themselves thrown into the breach between two worlds—one dead, the other struggling to be born. In order that a new birth of moral freedom may be created in the hearts of people everywhere, you, the members of the Senior Class, must speak the truth, and readily and willingly minister to people and to their spiritual and social needs.

The world needs you. The urgency of the situation should create a sense of deep moral responsibility on your part. The lights are going out, if indeed they have not already been completely extinguished. The black-out of decency and truth and brotherhood seems almost universal. But the darkness does not blot out the light of the stars, it only makes their light shine brighter.

You men are going to preach and minister to a world that is disillusioned. You are going to preach to a world that believed machines, wealth, and self-sufficiency would usher in the New Order. It now realizes that unless knowledge and material progress are permeated and directed by a deep moral sensitivity, these things become as a noisy gong or a clanging cymbal. The proud, sophisticated world of yesterday is moribund. You will preach to a world whose men and women are seeking earnestly for the torch that will blaze for them a new pathway to faith and freedom.

Your task must be to prepare such congenial soil in the hearts of men as will make possible the proper germination of the seeds of Liberty and Justice. Only by so doing will these seeds burgeon forth and bear fruit fit for Life's tomorrow. As ministers, you are faced with the responsibility of sensitizing your people to a social ideal capable of arresting their imagination with a captivating loyalty.

The centuries have made shopworn the ideal of the kingdom of heaven, so that few Christians have faith in it as an attainable need. Must you not, therefore, dedicate yourself to the task of helping men to recapture faith in themselves as sons of God, to the extent that the souls of men will not rest until the kingdom of this world shall have become a kingdom of co-operative fellow-feeling, a kingdom of love and of goodwill?

In truth, above all, you will have to face your difficult task in the Christian ministry relying on a faith in God that is as deep as the granite in the hills and upon a spirit and a life akin to the spirit and the life of the Man of Galilee.

SOCIAL WORK

Social Work as a major field for professional endeavor is still relatively young, having gradually achieved this defined status within the current century. Increased and expanded community services require more and better trained social workers to administer them. Dr. Caroline F. Ware, Director of Research in the School of Social Work, and Mrs. Gene Smith are shown planning a chart to illustrate some of the significant findings of Mrs. Smith's thesis study.

Social Work Is a Profession . . .

SOCIAL work is a profession whose major concern is with people and their human needs. It renders services that provide material security for people in economic distress and emotional security for individuals who have difficulties in adjusting to their economic and social environment. Its concern is both with the welfare of the individual and the community. Social workers are interested in raising the standard of living for the entire community by emphasizing the needs for better housing, improved health, educational and recreational facilities in the community.

Areas of Social Work

Social work activities fall within five general categories: case work, group work, community organization, administration, and research. Social workers engaged in case work aim at assisting individuals in developing capacity and opportunity to lead personally satisfying and socially useful lives. Case work forms part of the programs of such agencies as family welfare societies, departments of public assistance, social service departments in hospitals, clinics, and courts.

Workers engaged in group work are concerned with constructive use of leisure time. They help to develop volunteer leaders and work with the groups interested in recreation, informal education, music, drama, arts and crafts.

Community organization workers are concerned with the development and coordination of services to meet community needs. They work with individuals, organizations, and agencies, helping them to recognize needs in such areas as health, welfare, recreation, child care and to find ways to provide needed services.

Administration includes the wide range of activities that are indispensable to fulfil the purpose for which agencies are set up and to put into practice the objectives of a law.

Research in social work is concerned with the study and analysis of social needs and resources and ways for meeting them. Although not peculiar to social work alone, research is essential for the development and improvement of social welfare services.

Student-Faculty Committee

THE student-faculty committee of the School of Social Work was established in 1948. Its primary objective is to provide an opportunity for representatives of the faculty and student body to discuss matters of mutual concern, such as curriculum and course contents, field-work requirements, and extra-curricular activities. The committee, under the chairmanship of faculty member R. D. Smith, includes two first-year and two second-year student representatives, the president of the student organization, two faculty members and the Dean of the School of Social Work.

THE STUDENT ORGANIZATION

The student organization has been active for three years. It was established to provide opportunities for students to become better acquainted with one another, to encourage their participation in group activities, to enhance cooperation with student organizations from other schools and departments of the University, to stimulate interest of the entire student population in problems of social welfare, and to bring about closer faculty-student relationships.

SOCIAL COMMITTEE

This committee, with Bob Sau's as Chairman, sponsored the following activities: weekly informal coffee hours in the school lounge, an informal reception for the new students at the beginning of the academic year, a Christmas party at Miller House, a dinner in honor of Mrs. Roosevelt, preceding her lecture in January, a picnic at the farm of Dr. Ware, and a reception, on Commencement Day, for the graduating members of '49 and their guests.

On occasions the social committee of the faculty cooperated with this organization in sponsoring special events.

FORUM COMMITTEE

This committee, with Mrs. Francis Simsarian as faculty chairman, was responsible for planning a series of lectures on the general theme "Frontiers of Social Work."

The objective of the "Forum Series" was to stimulate among students of the school, members of the Howard University Community, and social workers of the Washington Community interest and concern for problems of human welfare, both on the national and international scene.

The committee brought to the school five outstanding speakers: Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt, Miss Francis Kernohan, Chief Social Branch, Division of International Labor and Social Affairs, State Department, Dr. Eveline Burns, Professor of Social Work, New York School of Social Work, Mrs. Inabel Lindsay, Dean, Howard School of Social Work, on sabbatical leave in 1948-49, Dr. G. Canby Robinson, well-known physician, from Baltimore, Md.

CLASS WILL

BEFORE we depart from the School of Social Work, we, the Class of '49, would like to leave to the Class of '50 and to the faculty some of our many rich and satisfying experiences as well as other items which, in our opinion, should meet with the approval of all their "recipients."

First, to the Class of '50 we leave our numerous field work placements which for 24 hours a week have given us many happy moments, particularly on days when we were able to go shopping or to see an early show. We leave to you those mornings when we could sleep late or the afternoons when we left the agency early, pretending to visit a client.

Betsy Greene and Dorothy Hebron leave to all medical majors an ideal placement at Johns Hopkins in Baltimore.

To child welfare or group work majors interested in "hooking a man" Jerry Edwards and Mary Hall leave an exclusive week-end resort ideally located, Kruse School, Delaware.

C. Henry Smith, hardest working student in the School, leaves to James Jones the headache of presidency of the student body.

Elaine Williams wills her conscientiousness about her work to the entire Class of '50 so that the whole class may submit the first drafts of their theses on registration day, Fall Quarter of 1949.

Charlotte Campbell wills a wedding band to all those desiring it to be delivered at the beginning of the winter quarter.

Freedmen's medical majors leave one undersized table (for 3 only) and seven tattered uniforms to the lucky ones who will obtain this much-sought-after placement.

To the Class of '50 we leave Dr. Ware's Thesis Seminar and our rattled thesis nerves, a 1949 Cadillac to add to the dignity which "Buster" has never been able to give us, Dr. Magnus' class in Public Welfare I, the New York placements promised by Mrs. Smith ("If you don't miss the boat"), the spaciousness of Mrs. Simsarian's office, Mrs. McKay's revised Child Welfare III Class, Dr. Prudhomme's surprise exams, the glamour of Mrs. McIntosh, the hope of being sold on Mr. Gibbons' group work approach, and the return of our gracious director, Mrs. Lindsay.

Those long term papers, the compulsory meetings, the eventful forum meetings with Mrs. Roosevelt, the closeness of students and faculty, our fears at the time of our first interview, our picnic at Dr. Ware's farm, our being able to smoke in class despite the "no smoking" signs, the two-hour stretches of classes, the cramped quarters, which will be remembered long after June, are willed to you.

We know you will enjoy all these things which inevitably must be left behind, and by the time we all make our first million dollars we can return to lay the cornerstone of a new and modern School of Social Work for future generations to enjoy.

CLASS POEM

And these, too, shall be among my monuments:
 A few words lacking eloquence and euphony,
 But motivated by dreams grander than any swell
 Of celestial tide or demi-god ambition.
 Words, neither lofty nor stirring as I uttered them,
 But which will echo in the valedictories of scholars,
 The harsh cries of warriors, the low invocations of saints,
 Hum in the soliloquies of loves unrequited and won
 For centuries, countless, not yet born, not yet conceived.
 Unknowingly, men great and men depraved shall use what I will
 To strive for ends beyond worldly understanding.
 At hadian labor below, I shall pause and smile
 As Rumor proclaims, "The memorials stand in all ages,"
 Although men forget me within an hour of my passing.

RECIPIENTS OF THE STUDENT COUNCIL ACHIEVEMENT KEYS FOR 1948-1949

Each year the Student Council awards achievement keys to those students whose individual contributions to the welfare and life of the campus community best exemplify those qualities that should characterize the typical student, and whose service to his Alma Mater has been outstanding and merits consideration equal to that of his scholastic achievement. Pictured at left are the students who were so honored this year.

CLASS HISTORY

by King D. Johnson

FRESHMAN YEAR

LIKE the caps we were given upon arrival at the University, we were strictly a green bunch. They swamped us with health examinations, campus tours, English placement tests, and psychological examinations. To even the temper of things, they forced upon us wiener roasts, a football game, and "get-acquainted dances." No one has yet been able to determine why the dances were called "get-acquainted dances" because no one got acquainted. The boys suddenly became bald and the girls sprouted callouses and corns from carrying the bags of the upperclasswomen.

Classes finally began and we met, for the first time, the problems of registration and overcrowded classrooms. It was at this point that we discovered how much we had to learn. Everyone looked upon us with a degree of intellectual scorn.

With the coming of spring our fancies turned to politics and the election of class officers. After much strife, turmoil, and bickering we elected: Edsel Hudson, president, James Moore, secretary, Charles Jones, corresponding secretary, and Livingstone Johnson, treasurer. To represent our class on the Student Council we elected Ernestine Hairston and William Matory.

At a later class meeting we elected as class officers for the sophomore year: Ross Clark, president, Gertrude Woods, vice president, Minna Ann Williams, secretary, Mary L. Walker, corresponding secretary, and Eddie Toppin, treasurer.

SOPHOMORE YEAR

We're in—We know everything—"We saw the grass turn green." We came back and found that the Veterans had invaded the campus. Dorms were overloaded. Cafeteria lines extended infinitely. Registration turned out to be a major "battle of the bulge." Advisers were still gumming up the works . . . when they could be found.

The class was split wide open by the subversive activities of the Greek letter organizations. The entire student body went politics-crazy. Small communist organizations attempted to gain footholds on the campus . . . all they got was feet.

We gave parties that rivaled the hilarious gay nineties. We received bids to the fraternities and sororities. Probations began in the fall. Fraternity influence and pressure became obvious and obnoxious.

Sara Wright spotlighted the activities of the class and its members with the "49'er," whenever it appeared. It became personal and more personal!! It was later abandoned because of money.

At this point the University Administration intervened and curtailed the large number of parties by its introduction of the "casualty list."

It's spring again and with its return our classmates became "patriotic" with a new fervor. In Cook Hall a "select few" assembled for unauthorized elections. Such name calling was never heard in Congress. Funds came up short. Before

E. Hudson

R. Clarke

the dense atmosphere of graft had subsided the following had been elected to office: Albert Byrd, president, Alice Brantley, vice-president, E. Hudson, E. Hairston, Robert Jones, and Roberta Fitzgerald, representatives to the Student Council.

This year marked the first selection of a Co-ed Cadet Colonel.

JUNIOR YEAR

For one reason or another this was our most eventful year as college students. Our elections were indicative of the trend to be taken by the National elections. We called names, Truman did, too. Our underdogs won, Truman did, too.

The registration problem re-rears its ugly head. Despite the "casualty lists" registration lines (if you can call those stampeding, unchecked, swarming masses of human confusion "lines") were as long as ever and twice as slow. The disorder was not peculiar to the students. Many of us will long remember the registration day the Head of the Philosophy Department was driven to seek escape, on the top of his desk, from the surging mob aspiring to get into his class in the Principles of Reasoning.

The quality of food went down, prices went up, and service disappeared. Result?? A general campus-wide strike. The number of candidates for the "casualty list" was reduced by the superb, smooth-operating syndicate of "grade changers" and "test swipers."

Spring again—Elections again. Students were "hung," machines jammed, ballots stolen, campaign signs destroyed, exchanged, and tampered with. We split into professional political parties. From this split evolved the "Progressives" and the "Studiocrats." The Progressives won. The elections were hotly contested before and after the balloting. Hearings were held and some of the culprits were threatened with expulsion. The elections were later reluctantly accepted by the University.

This year marked the first ROTC graduations since the end of World War II.

SENIOR YEAR

Seniors at last!! Our work is nearly completed and we are now in anticipation of that goal for which we set sail in the fall of 1945. Our experiences have been varied, but they have all been constructive. There has been a marked reversal of the intellectual immaturity and ineptitude so prevalent during our early days here.

To lead our noble class we elected Mr. William Matory, president, Miss Roberta Fitzgerald, vice-president, Misses Norma Whitby and Majel Butler, secretaries, and Mr. Cecil Davis, treasurer. To the Student Council—Miss Ernestine Hairston, Messrs. V. Lightfoot, James Carter, and Simon Cain.

Among the major accomplishments achieved by the Senior Class was the passing of the "Bison-Plan" which created a pay-as-you-go University-wide project for the publication of a yearbook.

CLASS PROPHECY

by Antoinette B. Johnson

A. Johnson

STRANGE things happen to us sometimes and mysterious gifts are apt to fall "out of everywhere" into our hands just when we least expect them. So many strange things had happened to me on this particular day in late September that I said I would never again be surprised at anything, but when a newspaper dropped into my path, I was forced to withdraw an earlier vow I had made. Imagine my joy when I saw the name and date, International Daily Tribune, June 5, 1969, written across the page—in English!

I had been directing a series of Chekhovian plays at the Moscow Art Theatre for nearly two years and had become quite tired of speaking Esperanto; therefore it was with happy anticipation that I hastily broke the seal of the journal and saw with delight that Wendell Royce, the editor of my college newspaper, the Hilltop, was likewise the editor of this paper. With the assistance of Ervin Dixon, associate editor, he had compiled, from leading newspapers of the world, all the outstanding achievements of the 1949 graduating class of Howard University.

What startling headlines my eyes focused upon!

"CHINESE CIVIL WARS END—MEDIATOR RECEIVES NOBEL PEACE PRIZE"

Following the headlines was a long account of how Frank A. Scott had finally terminated the long-lasting wars of the Chinese and, as a reward, had received the Nobel Peace Prize.

Another graduate distinguishing himself in international affairs was Alfred Sharpe, who was now on a diplomatic mission to Italy, where he would later join Camille Lee, Katherine Pickett, and Stephanie Spottswood, who were teaching a universal language to the natives of the country.

Proudly I read that a few months ago a young doctor in Nebraska had found a cure for cancer. How happy I was when I discovered that Edsel Hudson, former president of the Student Council, had been awarded a scientific key for this accomplishment. On behalf of the National Committee of Cultural and Scientific Research, its new president, William Matory, presented similar awards to Ross Clark, Charles Irving, Gloria Sutton, Saunders Thompson, and Harold Fletcher, who had collaborated with Dr. Hudson in this research.

According to one article, Ernestine Hairston, who had become one of the most prominent members of the Supreme Court because of her prolific eloquence, was now "paving the road" for such brilliant lawyers as L. Livingstone Johnson, Andrea Sparks, George F. Hill and Eleanor Norwood. When I saw these names, I was indeed amazed, for in our college days these persons had not yet learned to—well, you know.

As I quickly searched for the Drama Section, my attention was momentarily diverted by a picture of Russell Shipman and Samuel Nesbitt, who had very recently denounced this profligate world to join the priesthood and thus rescue mankind from sin and strife.

Fleeting I browsed through the Sports Page and noticed an article lauding the three most important men in the basketball world, George Jett, Harold Hargis, and Jimmy Winbon, who really got their "start" on the floor of Howard's gym.

At last I located the Drama Section and read Maxine Hayden's review of the venerable Owen Dodson's Garden of Time, starring Robert Brown, Yvonne Terrell, and Hilmar Jensen. Near the center of the page appeared a picture of a scene from James W. Butcher's The Seer, which had just recently opened at the Théâtre Libre in Germany, under the direction of Willa Mae Brandon, one of the playwright's former pupils.

At a glance I could see that the Society Page covered quite adequately the social functions of the forty-niners. James E. Moore, who, much to my surprise, was still a bachelor, had entertained some former collegians who had attended the Conference of World Dentists. A few of his guests were Walter Ray, Stanley Magnus, and Joe Earle.

Phyllis Freeman and her husband, Bill Harper, had just announced the engagement of their daughter.

A former campus belle of ours, Nancy Reynolds, was shown basking on the beach of the Bahamas with her 4th husband, while Minna Ann Williams (. . .) was pictured with one of her children—all of whom are boys!

Leisurely I scrutinized every detailed account of the Howard Alumni Meeting which had been held in the twelve-story club house, which some successful businessmen of the class of forty-nine had given the University. Many members of this class came from far and near to attend this meeting.

There was Chestine Everett, who had flown over from Paris, accompanied by fellow artists, D. Jeanne Coleman, Cecil George, and Conrad Thompson. Unfortunately, Albert Byrd was unable to join his co-workers on this trip since he was suffering from a back injury which had resulted from the awkward position he assumed as he painted the hemispherical ceiling of the Royal Academy of Art.

Norma Whitby, director of an exclusive nursery school in California, experienced a pleasant surprise as she traveled eastward with her co-workers, Janet Butler and Ernestine Lyles. Just as the plane landed at a Chicago depot, she recognized the faces of Gloria Edmonds, now prominent in social work, and Harold Lawson, Roberta Fitzgerald, Horace Holmes, and Lila Moore as they boarded the plane. She later learned that they were on the staffs of the Department of Psychology at various universities and were now en route to the Alumni Meeting.

It was certainly a marvelous reunion for Barbara Gentry, James Lee, Billy Davenport, Mary Louise Walker, and Marcelyn Cobbs, who could, as eminent sociologists, teach E. Franklin Frazier a bit about Social Disorganization.

Finally my eyes fell upon an article written in very fine print, which I later discovered was a University Obituary column. Tears poured down my face so vigorously and violently as I read the names of the deceased that I could no longer continue my reading of the journal, so I tucked it carefully away with my other memoirs. When I turned my eyes back on the world at large, a feeling of felicity engulfed me, for I realized that most of our nineteen forty-nine graduates had succeeded in their many endeavors because we had exercised the knowledge we had gained in undergraduate days at Howard University.

The Hilltop

THE official student publication of the campus community is the Hilltop. The Hilltop has enjoyed an interesting and prosperous career. This prestige and prosperity culminated in the independent and capable editorship of Wendell Royce. The Hilltop is ever seeking to mirror in clarity, express in sincerity, and report in accuracy, the will and attitude of the great student body it is entrusted to serve.

HILLTOP STAFF

The Student Council

STUDENT participation in the direction of student affairs is strongly encouraged at Howard University. The Student Council for the College of Liberal Arts and the School of Music is the representative policy-making and advisory body for students in these Colleges. Its Constitution was adopted May 12, 1936, and revised May 5, 1944. Every student in good standing in each of these Colleges is eligible to vote for general and class representatives who make up the membership of this Council. General elections are held in May of each year.

Members of the Council are (left to right): Arthurine Taylor, Joseph Oliverre, Victor Lightfoot, Edsel Hudson, president, Ernestine Hairston, Charles Epps, and Clifton Robert Booker.

CLASS WILL

● by Charles Irving

C. IRVING

THE mighty Class of 1949, being of sound mind and body and with joyous memories that put the Encyclopedia Britannica to shame, does hereby proclaim this document its last will and testament:

Article I

To Dr. Johnson, we bequeath our undying love and affection.

Article II

To the Dean and Assistant Dean, who have been responsible for many of our happy and satisfying school experiences and who have always been ready to guide us through whatever mazes in which we seemed to be wandering, we bequeath a sweet and unbroken succession of restful nights and peaceful dreams.

Article III

To our teachers, who have taken a deep interest in our advancement, who have guided us over the hard places with skill and patience, for the inspiration you have been to us, and for the high ideals you have set before us, we bequeath the joy of work well done and our regrets for any unnecessary trouble or gray hairs we have caused you.

Article IV

To the Junior Class, our places as seniors, the vast range of senior privileges, and an ultra high-powered microscope, which we hope will be their aid in finding them. May you lead with strength and efficiency.

Article V

To the Sophomore Class, the right to annoy the Freshman Class.

Article VI

To the lowly Freshman Class, our unfailing good humor in the face of trying hours which we, too, suffered when we were freshmen, and the hope of your being seniors some day, with all of our refinement and dignity.

Be it hereby known that all members of the Senior Class generously, with malice toward none, personally will and bequeath the remainder of our estate to the following:

1. Charles Howell leaves his job at the District News to Russell Martin.
2. Booker T. Stafford leaves his position in Dr. Cox's class to all who are foolish enough to enter within.
3. Macon Hinton leaves his ability to make A's to all students who have accumulated 44 hours of D's and F's.
4. John Alston bequeaths his suite at the Dunbar Hotel to Donald Covington, who has been using it constantly.

5. Marguerite Murrell wills her pointed remarks to June West and Trilie Stewart.

6. Charlene Tinsley wills her good study habits to Valerie Ford and Betty Page.

7. Eloise Gunthrop wills her ballet shoes to Betty Jo Branch.

8. Minna Anne Williams wills her good grades to Beverly Seymour.

9. Annie B. Knight wills her car to Carol Foster, hoping that she will get to school on time.

10. Eleanora Norwood wills her dynamic personality to Constance Penn.

11. Norma Whitby bequeaths her fine clothes to Jewell Gray, hoping they will fit her.

12. Carlisle Cherry wills the R.O.T.C. building to Herbert Saunders.

13. Marguerite Dodson wills her ability to make A's and still fool around to Betty Lou Brown.

14. Anne Smith wills her boy friend to any girl that is smart enough to get him.

15. E. Preston Dixon wills his position as Editor-in-Chief of the Bison to Pat Huggins.

16. Mary Lou Walker bequeaths her beautiful hair to Aurelia Roberts.

17. Frances L. Carter wills her position as Miss A.K.A. to June Peters.

18. Harold Reed wills good joy and prosperity to the succeeding classes.

19. Ernestine Hairston wills her position as Grid Iron Queen to Roslyn Payne.

20. Harold Logan bequeaths his job as student dean to Joe West.

21. Vivian Mason wills enough wood to Elaine Cheatham to make all future Sorority paddles.

22. "Billie" Davenport wills cutting class to go to the movies to Beverly Earle Wilson.

23. Jeanne Coleman wills eight happy prosperous years to June West.

24. Cecil Davis leaves the Chemistry Building to all unsuspecting Freshman students.

25. Edsel Hudson leaves his line of jive to John Bandy.

26. Ross "Bilbo" Clark bequeaths his ability to shoot bull to Robert Anderson.

27. Leon Dixon leaves his Chemistry books to Charles Epps.

28. William Payne leaves his bottle of 20% chemicals to Charles Tatum.

29. William Matory leaves his position as president of the Senior Class to the most competent person in the Junior Class.

30. Jean Rhodes bequeaths her boy friend to any lucky girl.

31. Edith Hall leaves her position as Senior Mentor to Betty Sands.

32. Mary Brock leaves her walk to Romaine Y. Smith.
33. Alice Brantley leaves her vim, vigor and vitality to Blanche Currie.
34. Cecil George leaves quietness and neatness to David "Student Body" Widsom.
35. Jonelle Burr bequeaths her poise to Flora V. Dorsey.
36. Lester Mightly leaves his spirit to cooperate to Gregory Lee.
37. Charles G. Irving leaves his very fine hats to any student who is not able to buy decent hats.
38. Harold Hargis leaves his physique to Charles Butler.
39. Elnora Payne wills her love to George Green.
40. Amelia B. Clark leaves Bill to all the little girls who will be here next year.
41. Doris McCullum bequeaths her ability to master Physical Chemistry to Dr. Taylor.

42. James G. Hawkins leaves his Mathematical ability to Thomas Cooke.

43. James Fearn leaves his ability to master Organic Chemistry to Dr. Barnes.

We commend our ambitious selves into the halls of life, our ultimate destiny, hoping and believing, through the stresses and struggles thereof, to add unto ourselves happiness and fame everlasting.

Sealed and signed before me this second day of June 1949.

CLASS HISTORY

The University Ballroom was completed in the Home Economics Building as a result of our efforts and insistence.

We saw the Temporary Gym erected. Now as members of the distinguished Howard University Alumni, we join that body in its ever-present desire for a football stadium.

WORLD "SHATTERIN'" NEWS!!! HOWARD UNIVERSITY INSTALLS NEW REGISTRATION PROCEDURE. At the beginning of the Spring Quarter, 1949, the Administration and Representatives of the Senior Class came up with a registration procedure that is effective and efficient. We all remember the confusion, duplication, neurosis caused by the old system that was prevalent during most of our days at H.U. We regret that this new system comes into being too late for us to reap its full benefits.

As we retrospect, we realize that our tenure here has favored us with some of the best years of our lives! Now that the long-awaited end has arrived, we realize that the parties, wiener roasts, picnics, dances, and balls have played an important part in our social development. We further realize that the football, basketball, track and swimming meets were all serving to endow us with the spirit of competition and the desire to be victorious sportsmen. We realize that the continuous debates and political maneuvers served to sharpen our wits and keep us ever on the alert. We realize that the continuous registration, bookstore, and cafeteria lines have prepared us for any future inconveniences we may face.

With all these realizations, we realize above all, that our Alma Mater has prepared us to face the vicissitudes of life. As we depart, it is with profound and sincere gratitude to our Alma Mater for the role which she has played in our development. We only hope that as we face life we will be able to attain the success that will reflect upon the splendid training we have received here at Howard University.

The African Students Association of the United States and Canada is organized to promote and improve relations between African students and those from other parts of the world, to interpret Africa and African life to the American public by means of concerts, lectures, pictures, dances, and similar activities, and to study current social, political, and economic problems in order to prepare members for participating in the solution of African problems.

CHESS CLUB

The Chess Club was organized in October, 1946. This club attempts to bring together members of the Howard community who are interested in the game of chess and to promote a program of instruction and competition as the groundwork for achieving the most competent Howard participation in collegiate chess play. All members of the student body are eligible for ordinary membership; members of the faculty and administration are eligible for associate membership.

The Chess Team, which is drawn from the Club, is a member of the American Intercollegiate Chess Federation.

USHER BOARD

NATIONAL ASSOCIATION FOR THE ADVANCEMENT OF COLORED PEOPLE (Youth Chapter)

The Howard Chapter of the NAACP attempts to keep the student body informed of the important political, social, and economic issues affecting their daily lives and to stimulate an active interest in these issues, so that they will be able to cope with such problems when they assume the duties and responsibilities for which they are preparing themselves. The program is effectuated through the presentation of forums, movies, and discussions.

FELLOWSHIP COUNCIL

The Fellowship Council is interested in creating more tangible means of active fellowship among the students of Howard University and in promoting affiliation and cooperation with national and international student Christian groups. The Council's activities give one an opportunity to find oneself through the medium of associated group work.

KAPPA SIGMA DEBATING SOCIETY

Intercollegiate debating at Howard University is carried on by members of the Kappa Sigma Society. From its beginning, Kappa Sigma has attempted to acquaint its members with the essentials of argumentation and logic, to afford them a means of appreciating social, economic, and political questions, and to develop them in the art of public speaking.

DAUBERS ART CLUB

The Daubers Art Club is an organization composed of students in the Department of Art. It aims to stimulate an interest in art among the student body and in the community. The Club sponsors art lectures, field trips, art auctions, and attempts to cooperate with other departments in the presentation of visual arts. The Club was founded in 1928 by Professor James A. Porter.

MODERN DANCE GROUP

It is the aim of the Modern Dance Group to teach its members to know the dance as a creative art experience. It aims at the development of body and personality by means of participation in the dance as a fine art.

HOWARD PLAYERS

The Howard Players is an organization of undergraduate actors and technicians interested in the study and presentation of drama. It was organized in 1920 to encourage the writing and production of plays of Negro life. At present, however, the Players experiment with a variety of dramatic subjects. Undergraduates may become members of the Players by passing the tryouts held each fall, at which time new members are admitted to both the dramatic and technical staffs.

PSI CHI

Psi Chi is a National Honor Society in Psychology. The Howard University Chapter was established June 2, 1947, with Dr. Francis C. Sumner, head of the University's Psychology Department, as sponsor. High scholastic achievement and a keen interest in psychology are the requisites for membership. Until recently Howard was the only local university which could boast of membership. To date it is still the only Negro university enrolled.

Howard's Chapter now has seventy-five members, which include all of the Psychology faculty and two honorary members, Dr. Sumner, the sponsor, and Dr. Max Meenes.

HISTORY CLUB

The History Club of Howard University was organized in October, 1948, with the sole purpose of establishing a regular means of communication between the students and the faculty members of the History Department, among the students themselves; and to aid in the furtherance of the study of history.

Among the high lights of the club activities for the year were the sponsoring of a public lecture by Dr. John Hope Franklin in celebration of Negro History Week, representation at an International Relations Forum at Mt. St. Agnes College, Baltimore, Maryland, and George Washington University, Washington, D.C.

MATHEMATICS CLUB

The Mathematics Club was organized in the Winter Quarter, 1949, to promote interest in the study of mathematics, discuss problems that are not taken up in various classes, and to provide a means of social outlet to the students.

The officers elected are W. Loretta Wilson, president; David Dinkins, vice president; Melba Chloë, secretary; Eleanor Green, treasurer; and John Thomas, sergeant-at-arms.

The club sponsors are Professor David Blackwell and Miss Hilda Lucy.

LE CERCLE FRANCAIS

For all French lovers there is provided on the campus an organization initiated to foster that interest. Aside from French speaking within the group, a French film is projected and a declamation contest is sponsored once a year, prizes being issued to the different levels of competitors. Emphasis is placed upon poetry, songs, music, literature, pronunciation, everyday conversation, and the general culture of France and the French-speaking countries.

COOK HALL ADVISORY STAFF

MEN'S DORMITORY COUNCIL

The Men's Dormitory Council, founded 1923, is organized into the Men's Dormitory Council proper, a volunteer tutorial staff, and a Freshman advisory committee. The Council has set as its goals the promotion of a more refined atmosphere in the men's dormitories and a greater spirit of campus fellowship, the encouragement of higher scholarship, the fostering of a closer faculty-student relationship, the assistance in Freshman orientation, and the sponsorship of intramural athletics.

TUTORIAL STAFF

Founded on the principles of human progress through academic proficiency—the Cook Hall Tutorial Staff has proved the worthiness of its existence by assisting fellow students in their academic endeavors. The Tutorial Staff has provided seminars, forums, speakers, and individual tutelage for many HOWARD STUDENTS.

WOMEN'S HOUSE GOVERNMENT

Senior Mentors

Future Teachers of America

THE COMMERCE CLUB, organized in 1922, is composed of students in the Department of Business Administration. It aims to give its members practical and theoretical knowledge in the field of business and economic enterprises through its affiliation with business men actively engaged in business. In order to encourage scholarship within its ranks, the club voted recently to award keys to members holding "B" averages throughout their junior and senior years.

F. T. A.

THE Kelly Miller Chapter of Future Teachers of America was established to unite all Howard students who are interested in education and the teaching profession. The members keep abreast of the advancements made in the field of education. FTA members participate in projects of a social, civic, or educational nature in order to become acquainted with the various activities expected of teachers and to gain experience and leadership training.

The chapter, in conducting annual tours of the campus, has done a great deal toward influencing the honor students of Washington's high schools to attend Howard University and to consider teaching as a career. It has served the community through rendering voluntary aid to the Junior Police and Citizens Corps. It has paid tribute to the cooperating teachers of the Washington public school teachers who have competently and cheerfully provided student teaching situations for Howard students. The latest civic project of the organization involves visiting the Industrial Home School for youngsters whose families have been evicted from their homes.

The officers of FTA for 1948-49 include: Ruby M. Thornton, president, Paul R. Jones, vice-president, Charles A. Thompson, recording secretary, Melba Chloe, corresponding secretary, Christopher McHoney, treasurer, Daniel McDaniels, assistant treasurer, A. MacShayne Harvey, librarian-journalist, and Thomas E. Walton, sergeant-at-arms. These officers are proud of the outstanding achievement made by their organization during 1947-48, during which period they were ranked 13th among the hundreds of chapters throughout the nation. The activities and purposes described are representative of the quality of the organization and the benefit it holds for all Howard students who are future teachers of America.

Row 2: Edward Jones, Samuel Jordan, Roper McNair, Chris Robertson, William Hall, Nathaniel Morgan, Melvin Marshall, Clarence Gilkes, Charles Ross, Clifton Lee, Virgil Anderson, and Kenneth Simms.

Row 5: Nathaniel Williams, Edward Miles, Arthur Burt, William Massey, John Carter, Richard Pugh, Oscar Blackwell, Hansford Holmes, and Horace Hamlett.

THE year 1948-'49 witnessed a continuance of Bison prowess in athletics. Football brought a fine team which finished second in the C.I.A.A., and won seven and lost two games for the best Howard record since 1926. A veteran eleven, led by seniors Jug Marshall, Sandy Green, Sam Jordan, Calvin Elliott and Nathaniel Morgan, climaxed a successful year by trouncing Lincoln in the Thanksgiving Classic 19 - 12 at Griffith Stadium before a crowd of 15,000. The passing of Chuck Ross to Hillary Thompson for two touchdowns, and to Nip McClain for another, were the highlights of the day as the Bisons broke a last period tie of 12-12 to make it three straight over the Lincoln Lions. Other season highlights were the victories over Hampton at Hampton and the homecoming triumph over Shaw University. Offensive stars for the team were Slick Abrams with his spirited running and pass catching, Virgil Anderson's punt returning, Sandy Green's line bucking and the great passing of Chuck Ross. Don Jones stood out in defense, and near the end of the season Roger Goodson came into his own. Jug Marshall, Otto Jordan, John Carter, and Bill Brown were the stars in the line.

SOCCER TEAM

Soccer has become another one of the popular sports on the campus. For the past two years the Bison Booters have met all types of competition without losing a game. Hilton Clarke, captain, Felix Blake, Peter Chen, Ronald Gordon, and Clive Bernard are some of the more outstanding members.

Sitting: Peter Chen.

Front row (kneeling): O. Hwani, C. Doughlin, F. Blake, F. Roebottom, and A. Augustus.

Second row (sitting): F. Glasgow, L. Ross, O. Adeboujo, A. St. George, H. Clark, A. Innocent, A. Hibbert, C. Bernard, and J. T. Chambers, coach.

Third row (standing): G. Barrett, L. Clark, H. Wilson, V. Viera, R. Gordon, and H. Seferam.

BASKETBALL TEAM

The '49 team had a record of eleven wins and eight losses. In the regular season's play the team finished fourth in the C.I.A.A.

Left to right—Seated: Hackley, Cochrane, Caldwell, Anderson, Hickman, Williams, Strickland, and Roberts.
Standing: Thomas, Hawkins, Walker, Harris, Lee, Anderson, Darbee, Tyler, and S. E. Barnes.

BOXING TEAM

The Howard University Boxing Team completed a successful 1949 season with the annexing of the C.I.A.A. Boxing Championship. Seven men competed and six of them fought their way to the semi-finals and four to the finals. Norvel Lee, who represented Howard University in the 1948 Olympics, and Charles Strickland emerged champions. The Howard team outscored Delaware State, its nearest competitor, 20 to 16. Charles Strickland and Norvel Lee were both undefeated during the year, as was Monte Hickman until the tournament. Other team members were James D. Williams, William Lewis, David Anderson, Z. C. Barbee, William Hackley, Clarence Roberts, William Walker, William Guess, Harry Cochrane, Charles Howze, and Elmo Caldwell.

CROSS COUNTRY TEAM

The Cross Country team under Coach Thomas Hart, had a fine season, winning four and losing two and tying one. James Bruce was the outstanding harrier for the second straight year.

Left to right—Front row, seated: Eugene Baxter, Albert Chandler, Warren Ashe, James Bruce, William Anderson, Stanley Womack, Alfonso Hinton.

SWIMMING TEAM

Intercollegiate Swimming is one of the latest of the varsity sports to join the circle of major competitive sports at Howard University. Efforts to place swimming on a level with the more established intercollegiate events began in 1945. The 1949 Bison tank men were tops among the schools training Negro youth for varsity swimming. In dual meet competition the Howard team won four meets, tied one and lost two. Terance Garmon, who took top honors and was recipient of the award for the most outstanding individual performer, and Clarence Pendleton, Jr., were leaders of the team.

THE WRESTLING TEAM

The Wrestling Team, an entirely new squad, under the direction of Coach Thomas Hart, surprised everyone by scoring 14 points in the C.I.A.A. Tournament. The squad showed fine spirit, and rapid progress was made during the season.

For the past five years track has been a major sport in Howard's athletic program. During this time Howard has held the C.I.A.A. championship for three consecutive years. The activities of the team include cross-country meets, indoor events, and conference and national outdoor championships. C.I.A.A. Broad Jump champion Tankard Marshall is captain of the team, with other champions on the team being William Collins, Charles Bryant, Chris Roberson, and James Bruce.

Howard's championship track team started the year by winning the C.I.A.A. mile indoor championship and has proved outstanding in the seven meets in which it has participated.

Second row: Chandler, Cameron, Hughes, Whitney, Osagi, Jones, Goodson, Toles, Mapp, Doub, Cox, Blackman, Russell, and Lassifer.

Third row: Mackenzie, Hill, Mapp, Moore, Graves, Howard, Stephens, Lindsey, Taylor, Baxter, Christian, Carroll, Benjamin, and Madison.

Fourth row: McSween, Bass, Blake, Pettie, Hamlett, Bryant, Bridges, Marshall, Keene, Houston, Barnes, and Chambers.

For the past three years, Howard's championship Tennis Team has been undefeated in C.I.A.A. tournament competition. In 1947 the Tennis Team, featuring Carl Williams, won the national championship. Ronald Gordon and Carl Williams have held the doubles championship for the last three years. Clyde Freeman rates as one of the top players of the team. The Tennis Team represented Howard University during 1949 at the Eastern Intercollegiate Tournaments which were held at Montclair, New Jersey. This was the first time that Negroes participated in these national tournaments against teams representing such schools as Cornell University, Harvard University, and Yale University.

BASEBALL

The impact of organized baseball on educational institutions is in evidence at Howard University. It has been to a large degree responsible for the revival of baseball on the campus after a lay-off of about twenty years. The third campaign got under way headed by such stars as Buster Fitzgerald, Cleveland Eugene, and Roger Goodson.

Left to right—Front row: Banks, Bell, Jefferson, Harris, Jones, Jefferson, and Eugene.

Back row: Howze, Fitzgerald, Young, Monterio, Bailey, Goodson, Thompson, Roberts, and Taylor.

Women's Athletic Association . . . The Women's Athletic Association is open to all women of the University who are interested in developing poise and femininity. Its purpose is to provide vigorous, wholesome outdoor and indoor activities, social contacts which will promote group spirit, instruction and skill in games which will carry over into leisure time play. The W.A.A. also sponsors Play Days with other schools, inter-sorority and class competitions.

For Health and Beauty . . .

THE athletic program for coeds at Howard University is designed to meet the health and recreational needs of all women in the University. According to Mrs. M. R. Allen, Head of the Department of Physical Education for Women, the program is designed to give each of the 1,300 coeds who enroll in the courses each quarter a finer appreciation and better understanding of the fundamental principles underlying good mental and physical health, a standard of beauty in Negro women which leads to an intelligent analysis of their health problems, body grooming, clothing selection, mental attitudes, mannerisms, posture, poise, and social graces, and beauty in the body through proper selection and participation in activities of a recreational and developmental nature.

The department offers a large variety of activities such as individual sports including swimming, diving, fencing, tennis, golf, bicycling, archery, badminton, ping-pong, and shuffleboard, modern, folk, clog, tap, and social dancing, developmental gymnastics, and such major sports as hockey, basketball, soccer, speedball, and softball.

In addition, there are organizations such as the Howard University Dance Group, the Gymnastic Club, the Women's Athletic Association and the Women's Physical Education Council, all of which are open to all of the women of the University. The department further endeavors to offer each young woman who desires to specialize in physical education professional training, an opportunity to develop her personal qualifications, and the means of making the most of her special abilities. This training is excellent for coeds.

HEALTH is the soul that animates all the enjoyments of life . . . and developing a sound mind in a sound body is the aim of the Department of Physical Education for Women at Howard.

COLLEGE OF LIBERAL ARTS:

FAVORITE PROFESSORS

THE Class of 1949 wishes to express its gratitude to the faculty of Howard University for its guidance and instruction during the past four years. Among this number are four members to whom we would like to pay special tribute, not so much for their personal achievements as for the interest they have taken in us. We thus salute Dr. Frank M. Snowden, Dr. Margaret J. Wormley, Dr. Robert P. Barnes, and Dr. Louis A. Hansborough.

Dr. Frank M. Snowden with his little green bag will long be remembered for his lectures in the classics and as director of Summer School. His mastery of subject matter and his willingness to impart this knowledge has been an inspiration to many. His scholarly attitude and carriage, and his warm, sincere interest in the students make him one of our favorite faculty members.

Dr. Margaret J. Wormley will be cherished by us for her warm, friendly personality. Her teaching is so stimulating because she not only is enthusiastic about literature and creative writing but also has an interest in and for people. Her philosophy is "Do the best you can with what you have and live life a day at a time, making each day's living the very best."

Dr. Robert P. Barnes, who is outstanding in his field of chemistry, has also won a place in our hearts. He always holds the interests of the students foremost in his mind and tries to make them fully understand and grasp the matter of chemistry. He has been an example for many budding chemists and doctors.

Dr. Louis A. Hansborough has been the favorite teacher of many students during his nineteen years at Howard. In his modest way he lectures without notes on the many phases of zoology, of which his favorite is embryology. He has won the respect and gratitude of those who have been fortunate enough to come into contact with him.

To these four members of the faculty we extend our thanks for the friendly, helping hand and the guidance they have extended to us. Your lives will be our inspiration and our memories of you will always be cherished.

Dr. Frank M. Snowden

Dr. Margaret J. Wormley

Dr. Robert P. Barnes

LIBRARY STAFF

Founders Library

FFOUNDERS Library which houses the main collection of the University Libraries is built in the Georgian style of architecture, of brick with limestone trim. It was completed in 1938 at a cost of more than a million dollars. Its spacious reading rooms, faculty studies, and carrells provide study space for all members of the University community—faculty and students, graduate and undergraduate.

The books, periodicals, and pamphlets housed in this building and the special collections in chemistry, physics, and mathematics constitute what is generally referred to as the University Library. This library is further supplemented by the libraries in the following professional colleges: Engineering and Architecture, Law, Medicine, and Religion. These several libraries have a total collection of more than a quarter million volumes.

Of particular interest to the scholar is the Moorland Foundation, a collection of Negro life and history, which had its beginning in 1914 with the donation by Dr. Jesse E. Moorland of his extensive collection of books, pamphlets and clippings. To this nucleus several collections have been added, so that the Negro collection is now well on the road to becoming the most authoritative source of information on the Negro to be found anywhere in the world. The most valued of these collections is the Arthur B. Spingarn Collection of Negro Authors which was acquired in 1947. This collection represents some 5,000 items—books, pamphlets, magazines, newspapers and hundreds of ephemeral pieces, such as programs, announcements, circulars, theatre bills. Many of the rare books in the Spingarn Collection are not to be found in any other library in the United States.

The twenty-two persons who compose the Library Staff are some of the best trained workers in the library profession, many have studied and worked with the leading librarians of this country. They hold degrees from several of the major colleges and universities, as well as the top-ranking library schools. The five senior members of the staff have all had special training in their respective phases of librarianship, furthermore, they have served the students and teachers of Howard University for an average of more than twenty years each. With its excellent building, fairly large book collection, and well-trained and experienced staff, Founders Library is able to meet most of the needs of the students and teachers of the University.

CAMPUS CANDIDS

Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority

HISTORY OF THE ALPHA KAPPA ALPHA SORORITY

IN JANUARY, 1908, on the campus of Howard University, a group of young women organized and founded Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority, the first Greek-letter sorority for Negro college women. The purpose of this organization is to cultivate and encourage high scholastic and ethical standards among college students, and to keep alive the interest of alumnae in college life and progressive movements emanated therefrom, with the avowed purpose of improving the social status of our race, and increasing educational efficiency.

Today there are 184 undergraduate and alumni chapters on college campuses and in cities throughout the United States.

The sorority sponsors a national health program, maintains a scholarship and student loan fund and awards fellowships for foreign and domestic study. In 1938, the sorority established the National Non-Protestant Council of Public Affairs, now known as the American Council on Human Rights, which is sponsored cooperatively by six national collegiate fraternities and sororities.

Among the activities for the school year of '48-'49, Alpha Chapter of Alpha Kappa Alpha Sorority presented in a public meeting Soror Thomasina Johnson who spoke on "Employment Opportunities in Contemporary World Affairs." In February, 1949, Soror Loes Towels was presented in concert at John Wesley A.M.E. Zion Church. On May 5 and 6, Alpha Chapter presented the Annual A.K.A. Follies, directed by Soror Jodora McIntosh.

Officers of Alpha Chapter: Basileus, V. Stephanie Spottswood, Anti-Basileus, Carolyn Dixon, Grammateus, Evelyn Matthews, Epistoleus, Doris Heiser, Assistant Epistoleus, Juanita Cunningham, Tamiouehos, Josie Armstrong, Hodegus, Lois Curry, Parliamentarian, Alfreida Huggins, Sergeant at arms, Mary Lou Griggs, Ivy Leaf Reporter, Frances Lydia Carter.

Delta Sigma Theta Sorority

Officers: President, Norma Whitby; Vice-President, Agatha Lawson; Recording Secretary, Barbara Gentry; Corresponding Secretary, Loretta Wilson; Treasurer, Jonelle Burr; Chaplain, Jewell Gray; Parliamentarian, Kathryn Chappelle; Custodian, Zella Crawford; Sergeant at arms, Lila Moore; Dean of Pledgees, Edwina Kolheim; Journalist, Roberta Fitzgerald.

ON JANUARY 13, 1913, at Howard University, Delta Sigma Theta Sorority was established. The founders of Delta envisioned an organization which would reach out into all parts of the country and bring together college women of like ideals, potentialities, and attainments for the mutual benefits which such fellowship affords, for concerted action in removing the handicaps under which women as members of a minority group labor, and for promoting social and race betterment.

Some of the activities of Alpha chapter for the year of 1948-49 have included: Thanksgiving baskets to a needy family, the "Jabberwock," the winning of a radio-combination in the Phillip Morris Contest, the awarding of a $100 scholarship to a worthy non-sorority student, sponsoring a soror to attend Smith College as an exchange student, taking a week-end trip to Lincoln University, giving a spring dance, presenting cultural and educational programs as a part of Alpha Chapter's May Week activities, as well as making contributions to the Traveling Library Fund.

The Pyramid Club during 1948-49 won a prize for its float at the Howard Home-coming Game, gave a Founders Day Tea and a Kiddy Ball, and has made contributions to the children at Children's Hospital, to mention a few of the many activities of the sorority's pledge club.

ZETA PHI BETA SORORITY was founded January 16, 1920, at Howard University. Mr. Charles R. S. Taylor and Dr. A. Langston Taylor of Phi Beta Sigma Fraternity recommended that a sister sorority be organized. They discussed the idea with Arizona Cleaver, Viola Tyler, Myrtle Tyler, Pearl Neal, and Fanny Pettie, who became the founders of the sorority. Basic objectives are service, scholarship, sisterhood and, as its ideal, finer womanhood.

Activities

The sorority project is juvenile delinquency at the Junior Police Corps. The pledges have had programs at the Stoddard Baptist Home. A Winter Frolic is given by the sorority. The Egyptian Ball is an annual affair at which the Mark Anthony of the campus is crowned. The usual activities of probation and pledging take place each year. The regional conference was held during the first week of May on the campus. The Boule was held in Philadelphia in December, 1948.

The sorority colors are blue and white.

Durwood C. Archer, president; Joseph Olliverre, vice-president; Ivorite Echols, recording secretary; Manuel Lorenzo Walker, corresponding secretary; Herbert Willis, treasurer; Saunders Thompson, financial secretary; Horace Holmes, historian; Edward Bobo, sergeant at arms; John Thurston, chaplain; N. Howard Beavers, parliamentarian; Terrence Hines, editor of Sphinx; Frank R. Bizzell, dean of Sphinxmen.

A LPHA PHI ALPHA FRATERNITY was founded at Cornell University, Ithaca, New York, on December 4, 1906. The fraternity is dedicated to the advancement of education among the young people of the world and to the advancement of the Negro people to the status of full citizenship in the United States.

Beta Chapter has sponsored many programs on the University campus, most of which were along educational lines: a noonday concert, a forum on the Negro press, a midday concert, a spring benefit concert for the campus chapter of N.A.A.C.P., the Coronation Ball, and the Alpha Spring Prom.

Beta Chapter was also co-sponsor of the Alpha Eastern Regional Convention, held at Howard University on May 6, 7, and 8, 1949. The fraternity is affiliated with the "American Council on Human Rights."

Fifth row: John Hawkins, Clarence Gilkes, Melvin Moore, David Chube, William McLeod, Alfred Johnson, Thomas Scharborough, C. Robert Booker, Howard Chandler and Winfred Mundle.

X I Chapter (1920), Kappa Alpha Psi, strives to obtain for its members all of the benefits which can accrue from membership in a modern college brotherhood. Its fundamental aim is to instill an urge for achievement within its members, thus preparing them for success in college and post graduate life.

The program of the Chapter is both social and academic. The chapter sponsored the annual Guide Right Program which is designed to aid young students in becoming adjusted to college life. The highlight of this affair was the presentation of a scholarship award to Miss Cynthia Reed for her essay on "The Importance of Aptitude in Choosing a Career." The Fraternity also sponsored a series of educational forums.

These forums were composed of students and faculty members and sought to expose outstanding problems of today and how they involve modern students.

Within its own ranks, the Fraternity operates a very efficient tutorial staff which helps its members to maintain scholastic success in all fields of study.

Kappa's outstanding social affair during the past year was the annual Silhouette Ball, held during the Fall Quarter. The dance was held in honor of Miss Jean Camp, who was elected to reign as Fraternity Sweetheart for the entire year. The social schedule also included a series of closed parties and a picnic during the Spring Quarter. The Easter Dawn Dance, a Kappa tradition, was also presented this year through the joint sponsorship of the local college chapters and the Washington Alumni Chapter.

Xi Chapter closed its academic year with a banquet in honor of its graduating members.

Officers of Xi Chapter are: Melvin O. Barber, Polemarch, Cleo G. Pruitt, Vice Polemarch, Sylvester E. Williams, Keeper of Records, and Victor Handcock, Keeper of Exchequer.

Omega Psi Phi Fraternity

ALPHA CHAPTER

ALPHA Chapter of the Omega Psi Phi Fraternity was founded on November 17, 1911—the mother chapter of the first Negro fraternity to be founded at a Negro institution of higher learning. Starting from a nucleus of three men, the chapter has grown to a band of 150 stalwarts. As one of the leading student organizations on the campus, it is very active in all the many phases of campus life. The chorus, under the direction of Valerian Smith, the Pops Concert given each year by the Lampados Club, and other cultural and social functions sponsored and produced by the Fraternity have become a dynamic part of the Howard community.

Pictured on the front row are the officers of the chapter. They are, from left to right: Valerian Smith, Director of the Que Chorus; Simon L. Cain, Pan-Hellenic representative; W. W. Barber, Dean of Pledges; George H. Green, Corresponding Secretary; Floyd C. Kennedy, District Marshall; Maurice D. Bean, Basileus; Edward Geathers, Vice-Basileus; Hugh C. Banks, Assistant K.R.S.; and Livingstone M. Johnson, Keeper of Peace. Not shown here are Marvin T. Harper, Keeper of Records and Seal, and Lewis K. Atkinson, Keeper of Finance.
